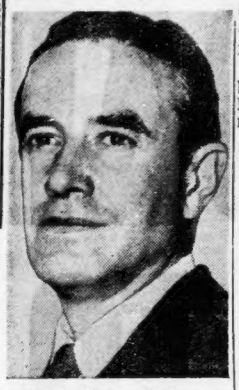
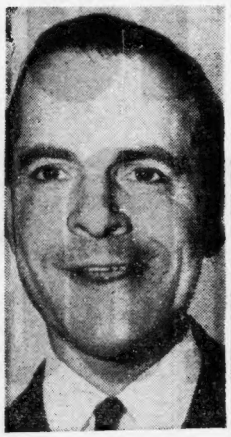
Austen Lake Reports from Europe to N.E. Vets

Urges U.S. 'Economic Pistol' Aimed at Reds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Rep. Lodge (R.) of Connecticut proposed today the United States should invoke economic sanctions against Russia and her satellites. Commerce Sec. Harriman agreed immediately that this country should cut off any exports which would contribute to the military strength of the Soviet bloc.



W. AVERILL HARRIMAN



REP. JOHN D. LODGE

Harriman, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, told the House foreign affairs committee:

"Export licenses can be used to invoke economic sanctions but I prefer persuasion.

"I don't think it would be proper to attempt to shut off trade, but I believe we should not ship our materials which are a direct contribution to the military strength of the eastern European countries."

"Don't you think we should use an economic pistol on Soviet Russia?" Lodge pressed.

Harriman replied:

"I don't believe there is any intention of war at the present time, and believe that the forces of our recovery program will rule back Communism behind the iron curtain. We don't want to build an iron curtain west of the iron curtain.

"I believe we should carry out our recovery program and restrict our resources and equipment to the co-operative countries."

REDS' IRON VISE CITED

Harriman previously had said he would favor stopping at once any American aid to a nation which might come under the influence of Russia.

Harriman was asked about his attitude in such a case while he was testifying to the House foreign affairs committee in behalf of the administration's proposed $597,000,000 emergency assistance for France, Italy and Austria.

"I would then lose interest in it, in that particular country," Harriman said.

But, in contrast, he said he believes America should hold itself ready to extend help to nations of Eastern Europe if they should free themselves of Russian domination.

SENATOR LODGE'S VIEW

Chairman Vendenberg of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made clear that the United States has a vital interest in the world's uranium resources. He said:

"Some of us, before this show is over, are going to want some information about uranium."

Uranium is one of the key materials used in the manufacture of the atom bomb.

The uranium question came up when William Phillips, a State Department adviser, told of hopes of this nation to obtain strategic material for stockpiling in return for aid extended under the Marshall plan.

Senator Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, said he thinks vigorous action should be taken to obtain raw materials in return for the aid.

GUM FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP) —Andrew J. Paris, chewing a stick of the bubble gum he manufactures, left by plane today for Europe to espouse the cause of blowing bigger and better bubbles among the small fry on the continent.

Paris, a Detroit resident, was armed with 30 pounds of samples and said he would open offices in Paris and Brussels.

With an appreciative gleam in his eye, he estimated that between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 American children now chew the gum.

EIRE SUSPENDS U. S. COAL

DUBLIN, Nov. 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera announced in the Dail today that Eire would suspend purchases of American tobacco and coal. He also said British coal would replace coal Eire has been importing from America.

PRAYERS ANSWERED—Andrea Brodbine, 6, for whose life the entire city of Pasadena, Cal., prayed when she was stricken by infantile paralysis several weeks ago, now seems on the road to recovery. She is shown walking again in a hospital, aided by a mechanical coaster. The child's parents asked the public to pray for their girl at a time when medical aid seemed hopeless.

Army Man Tells of 1943 Quiz Of AAF Buyers on Stock Deals

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Col. William B. Nuckols told investigating Senators today he heard rumors in early 1943 that Air Force purchasing officers had heavy holdings of stock in companies with which they were dealing. Nuckols was an Air Force public relations officer at the time, and he said he proposed steps for the AAF to be prepared to answer such rumors, if they gained widespread currency. He said he:

1—Suggested that arrangements be made to make a survey of such holdings.

2—Suggested that letters be sent out to high air force officers asking them to list confidentcally their holdings of such stocks.

Among those to whom this letter was sent, he said, was Maj.-Gen. Bennett E. Meyers who told the Senate war investigating committee yesterday that he bought 100 shares of Republic Aviation stock during the war for Lt.-Gen. Ira Eaker.

Meyers also told the committee he made a $4,000,000 speculative purchase of Government bonds.

Nuckols was the first witness as the Senate committee opened a phase of hearings which Chairman Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, said would develop the details of how Meyers swung this deal.

Nuckols had not got far into his story before Ferguson called a recess. The Michigan Senator explained he had to appear before the Supreme Court to move admission of some attorneys to pratice.

When Ferguson convened the morning session, he said the phase of hearings then opening would aim to develop what the air force did about "uncovering and exposing possible fraud" or "improper actions" by high officers.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Senate investigators developed testimony today that Maj. Gen. Meyers owned 2700 shares of aviation stock valued at about $35,000 on Feb. 5, 1943, but reported to the Air Corps that he held none.

Carmine S. Bellino, investigator, testified as to the general's stock holdings. Before Bellino testified it was brought out that Meyers had acknowledged dealing heavily in aviation stocks prior to and in the early years of the war.

Waves Lash Coast; Huge Loss on Cape

Seas churned up by yesterday's southeaster, now whipped by a whistling northwest wind, were smashing the New England coast for the second successive day today as emergency crews from New York, Pennsylvania, Boston and Brockton joined Cape Cod workmen in a swift effort to repair broken power lines throughout the hard-hit area. As the storm swept out to the Atlantic, hundreds of summer cottages from Sandwich to Provincetown, already battered by the pounding seas, stood in danger of further damage. Unofficial estimates placed the loss at more than $1,000,000.

Failure of power and telephone lines and snapping of tall radio beacons left many Cape Cod communities isolated, though roads were quickly cleared of debris scattered by yesterday's powerful winds. The breakdown of electric power made home oil-burners useless and affected some water-pumps.

Red Cross workers from Barnstable and Hyannis were touring the Cape to determine where aid was needed first.

Hundreds were forced to take shelter in the homes of neighbors as the temperature slumped close to the freezing mark during the night.

Temperatures during the night ranged from a low of 21 at Montpelier, Vt., to 35 at Nantucket. The mercury in downtown Boston dipped to 31 just before dawn.

The Coast Guard cutter Gen. Greene was towing the disabled 71-foot New Bedford dragger Rhode Island to its homeport from a point 15 miles off Chatham where its rudder had broken.

Brunt of the storm was borne by the "inner arm" or Massachusetts Bay side of Cape Cod, where 40-mile southeast winds shifted to northwest and swept the area with gusts as high as 90 miles an hour.

Damage to telephone and electric light poles and lines was figured at $250,000 and more than $750,000 in damage was done to fishing craft, summer cottages and stores and homes, hundreds of which lost roof shingles and chimneys.

Considerable damage was suffered by Camps Nobscusset and Dennis.

Mrs. Paul Stevens, wife of the minister of the First Congregational Church, Yarmouth, collapsed from shock in the church a few minutes after its steeple was swept to the ground by the wind.

The clock and steeple of Brewster's First Church, built in 1700, was also sent crashing by the gale.

Police radio towers in Yarmouth and Barnstable and five huge radio beacons of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, erected on Nantucket for the guidance of transatlantic planes but not yet commissioned, also were down.

A dozen Navy planes were splintered when two hangars collapsed on Martha's Vineyard.

Provincetown suffered extensive damage from waves that broke against buildings on both sides of Main and Commercial sts. and covered the lawn of the Town Hall. The Methodist Church steeple toppled as did the 50-foot weather tower.

5 in Cruiser Safe In Plymouth Bay

Fear for the lives of five persons, four of them residents of the North Shore, was dispelled today when they were found safe aboard the 35-foot cruiser Marmot IV in Plymouth harbor, where they had taken refuge from the storm en route to New Bedford from Saugus.

The five were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brodrick, Bickerton pl., Lynn; Percy C. Harris, Lawton ave., Lynn; Owen Forward, 21, Central st., Saugus, and Ray Knapp, 21, Key West, Fla. They had left Saugus Tuesday forenoon and were due in New Bedford the same day but had not been heard of until the Coast Guard's Gurnet lifeboat station reported them safe in Plymouth.

Find Boy, 2, Dog Lost 22 Hours

STORMVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP)—A 2-year-old boy and his dog, missing 22 hours in near-by woods and marshlands, were found alive and well today four miles from their home, the boy lying on a pile of leaves crying "I want my mommy."

Lt. James Rafy, provost marshal at the Greenhaven, N. Y., Army disciplinary barracks, announced the child, Daniel, had been found and said a physician reported he was in good condition even though he spent the night out in near-freezing weather.

Two Army men, crossing a thickly overgrown swampland shortly before 9 a. m., heard a whimpering in a thicket. As they entered the underbrush, the boy's white mongrel dog, "Peaches," ran away.

The men carried the child to nearby Taconic parkway where they hailed an army car to return him to his home. As they drove away the dog appeared and entered the car upon seeing the boy.

Five hundred soldiers and volunteers, aided by planes, had been searching the area since the child wandered from home. He is the son of Maj. and Mrs. Ralph Chadwick. The major is stationed at the Greenhaven barracks.

The soldiers said the spot where the boy was found was so overgrown they never would have seen him if they hadn't heard the whimpering. His only marks were minor scratches.

Lost Battleship Found at Sea As Boats Patrol 'Battle' Line

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 13 (AP)—The decommissioned battleship New Mexico, en route under tow to her last "battle," was lost at sea and found again today 40 miles outside of New York harbor. Two tugs which cut the 30,000-ton dreadnaught loose in heavy seas late yesterday en route from Boston rushed to take her in tow once more after a Coast Guard plane located the New Mexico wallowing in the rough Atlantic.

MAY BEACH TRUCE

At the entrance to Port of Newark Channel inside New York harbor, two Newark fireboats meantime maintained a vigil to keep the former battleship out of Newark. City officials have ordered that no more ships be scrapped on the city's waterfront—and sent out the fireboats armed with chemical sprays and water hoses to show they meant business.

The fireboats remained at their posts although Mayor Vincent J. Murphy said after a conference with undersecretary of the Navy Kenney yesterday in Washington and that some agreement to stave off the pending "battle" was in sight.

Skippers of the two tugs towing the New Mexico told the Coast Guard running lights were kept on the New Mexico during her overnight drift but that they lost her at an undisclosed hour and could not find her this morning.

Three men were believed aboard the New Mexico. The Coast Guard said it thought the tugs cut the ship loose because of heavy seas in which they were making scarcely any progress.

Despite the possibility of a Washington-enforced truce in the battle of Newark Bay, new complications were reported brewing at Santa Fe, New Mexico. The local chamber of commerce there said it plans to protest Newark's "slur" in refusing admittance of the one-time battleship bearing the State's name.

BOUGHT FOR SCRAP

The New Mexico is owned now by Lipsett, Inc., a New York salvage firm, which purchased it for scrap and also leased part of the Newark Navy base for the dismantling job.

City officials previously had requested the Navy to give up its wartime base at Port Newark in order to permit a $70,000,000 expansion program to get under way. The fireboats were called out when it was learned the New Mexico was on its way here.

The two fireboats staged "battle" maneuvers yesterday. They went into action with their two deck nozzles, flexing their respective muscles for the benefit of cameramen, and tossing some 2000 gallons of water and foam into the air per minute.

City Public Safety Director John B. Keenan, designed by Mayor Murphy as "admiral" of the Newark fleet, said the plan of battle would be to block the channel entrance, stringing a cable if necessary, or summoning assistance from other tugs.

A call for help was sent to New York city across the bay yesterday, the neighboring metropolis being requested to lend at least one more tug or fireboat to help block the channel entrance if the comic opera battle comes off.

Lake Travels 40 Miles Into Red Zone, GIs Tab Return

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent

BERLIN (with the U. S. occupation force)—I drove 40 miles into the Russian zone today. That sounds daring. Actually it was as safe and uneventful as riding from Boston to Worcester. Except for the rotating arms of a few wayside windmills and swarms of wayside refugees, it could have been any of a dozen New England turnpikes.

This is the international highway which bisects the Russian zone and permits free rolling some hundred miles — provided you don't wander off the thoroughfare or go traipsing around the countryside right or left. Your right of way ends at the shoulders of the road. If you have a breakdown or a flat tire and no spare, just stay where you are and don't go nosy-poking toward that pretty hamlet just beyond the hill in search of help—not unless you wish to spend the next six weeks as a laboratory guinea pig for Soviet intelligence officers. Just stay on the straight and narrow and in a few hours Americans will come for you.

Roland Poulin

U. S. Military Government maintains two "rescue" stations along this inter-zonal turnpike, one at the small town of Nahmitz, whither I went (40 miles south of Berlin), and another at Helmstedt, 40 miles along. They operate somewhat like St. Bernard dogs in the Swiss Alps.

American check points outside Berlin and at the U. S. zone on either end of the Russian borders "hand you along" by radio report to the intermediary spots, and if you don't turn up on reasonable schedule, they send out a jeep patrol to look for you. More likely, if you have breakdown trouble, a passing motorist will report it down the line. So you won't be marooned—unless you go sight-seeing off the road.

DOUBLE-PURPOSE ROAD

This is one of those broad, concrete speedways which the late Herr Schicklgruber built for the double purpose of creating employment and to transport his troops and heavy guns before wartime. It runs past flat farm and woodlands from which the Russians have lumbered much of the tall-stemmed timber as part of its war payment—great, bald wastelands with fringes of scrub pine which resemble the deforested turpentine groves of Florida.

Elsewhere in the neighboring zones, German forests are inviolate and semi-sacred and no tree felled, except by government permission.

Motor traffic is sparse on the international highway, consisting mainly of battered, heavy-laden German and Russian trucks with an inevitable crest of ride-thumbers who wait in groups along the road, going eternally on and on in a grim-faced, ragtag, frozen way. Most are women, without baggage. A few pull hand carts. Some are elderly people, graybeards and wizened wives who make tandem teams with shoulder straps towing small wagons.

Unlike the carefully policed U. S. zones where there are frequent speed-traps and roving MP's to give you that "Goin' to a fire?" routine, there is no speed limit in the Russian zone. Sign posts invite you in three languages "Go Fast." For loiterers are suspects here. The faster you roll the sooner you're out of spy-range.

So we bowled to Nahmitz in a constabulary jeep, kindly provided by the Berlin Squadron at Oliver Barracks, and came to a small hutment where the American flag floated. A long single storied shack, like the horse sheds at Suffolk Downs, was encircled on three sides by a high barb-

Judge Frees 2 In Attack Case, Blasts Woman

Women who accept automobile rides from men they don't know should not be surprised when their new friends challenge their virtue, Judge John W. McLeod lectured today in Chelsea district court.

Forthwith, he dismissed a case of assault with intent to rape against Chester E. Stone, Shirley st., and Norman C. Thomas, Lewis ave., both 24 and of Winthrop.

The complainant was Mrs. Charlotte Dowling, 37, also of Winthrop. The defendants said they had picked her up early on the morning of Nov. 8 in Shirley st. Thomas was driving and Stone sat with his arm around her, they added, when suddenly she screamed and seized the wheel. Thomas stopping and letting her out. Judge McLeod said:

"I'm getting fed up with the stories of women who climb into cars with strange men and then charge them with criminal attacks.

"I'm satisfied the complainant entered the automobile willingly and although the defendants had ulterior motives they did not reach the point of attempted rape. In the past few weeks we have had 6 or 7 so-called rape cases in this court.

"In many instances women meet men in liquor places, total strangers, with whom they get into cars at late hours of the night. I don't know why they should expect anything else would happen to them under the circumstances. Just a glance at the papers any day should be warning enough against these practices on the part of women.

"I might add that the men in these cases, despite the circumstances of picking up these girls, should keep their emotions under control."

Hynes OK's 2 Housing Contracts

Mayor Hynes announced today he had approved contracts totaling $1,437,731 awarded by the Boston Housing Authority for construction of 68 two-family homes for veterans in Mattapan and Hyde Park.

Last Monday the Mayor approved contracts totaling $1,548,304 for construction of 80 two-family homes in Mattapan, Hyde Park and Dorchester.

One contract approved today was for $784,610 to the M. Slotnick Co., for 38 two-family houses in Cottage st., Hyde Park, an approximate cost of $20,647 for each house.

The other, for $653,121, was awarded to the M. S. Kelliher Co., for construction of 30 two-family homes in the River st., Mattapan, veteran housing project, making the average cost per house $21,770.

3 Used as 'Fronts' In Theft of Checks

Two chauffeurs and a girl secretary testified in federal court today they had been used as "fronts" for four New York men who are charged with mail thefts of checks they allegedly forged and cashed through the three government witnesses.

One of the quartet, Michael A. Schulman, has pleaded guilty and is awaiting disposition of his case.

On trial are Walter Marks, 61; Peter Green, 53 and Thomas Higgins, 39.

Confronting them on the stand were Barbara Norton, Peal st., Medford, who said she served as a secretary for two and one-half days, and the chauffeurs, Ernest L. Merritt, Chestnut st., Brighton, and Neil R. Murphy, Marlboro st., Back Bay.

Miss Norton said an employment agency told her to report to a "Mr. M. R. Bradfield" at a Hanover st. office. This was the alias used by Schulman, according to government testimony.

Her new employer gave her a $300 check endorsed by Mrs. Janet Jones, Chestnut Hill ave., Brookline, and told her to cash it at the National Shawmut Bank, but first to endorse it with her own name, she said. She testified she followed orders and turned over the money to him.

Mrs. Jones testified her name had been forged on the check, which had been stolen from her mail box.

Murphy said he was hired as a chauffeur by "Bradfield," who posed as an insurance executive too busy to cash his own checks. Murphy said he endorsed and cashed two checks for a total of $850, Oct. 8, 1946.

Defense Counsel Wilbur Hollingsworth asked him:

"How can you remember the exact date more than a year later?"

"If you had two checks bounce on you, you'd remember it, too, wouldn't you?" demanded the witness.

Merritt testified he had been hired by a "Sidney White," another Schulman alias, according to the government, for whom he had endorsed and cashed a $300 check at the Natick Trust Co.

"White" tipped him two or three dollars a day in addition to his pay, Merritt said.

Former Sweetie Links Lover Lane Suspect in Killing

In a dramatic surprise rebuttal move by the State, the former sweetheart of a Lowell youth charged with the murder of ex-Army Sgt. Mario Gimolizzi, 26, in a lover's lane holdup shooting March 1, testified in Middlesex Superior Court today that he had confided to her he was involved in the killing.

An attractive brunette, now married and living in Norfolk, Va., girl testified over the objection of defense counsel.

She was married at the time she came from Norfolk to visit Coggins in jail, she testified, and under cross-examination she admitted that she had promised to help him. Mrs. Retina added:

"I first saw him at the East Cambridge jail about April 1. Another girl, Doris Faulkner, and a fellow went with me. He told me he was out trying to steal a car because he wanted to go South so he could see me. He told me there were two shots fired in the killing, but that he did not know whether he fired them or Dupont fired them.

"I saw him again about a week later. His brother, Donald, went with me. He asked me to get his father, a guy named Pete and two other guys to see if they remembered him being in Dan's Tavern the night of the murder.

"The third time I saw him, the next week, he told me again the reason he wanted to steal a car was to drive to Norfolk to see me. He told me that two guns were used in the holdup."

In cross-examination by Atty. Joseph Donohue, Coggins' counsel, she admitted she was involved in "a fracas" in a Lowell cafe last January, two nights before her husband-to-be arrived in Lowell.

"Your father punished you, didn't he., when Coggins told him about the fracas?" Donohue asked.

"He told my father only because he was jealous," the witness replied. "And my father didn't punish me he just talked to me."

Coggins, called to the stand to rebut his former sweetheart's testimony, testified when she saw him in jail he had told her what police charged he had done and insisted he did not admit that he was involved in the murder.

The case is expected to reach the jury tomorrow.

MRS. THERESA RETINA

Mrs. Theresa Retina, formerly of High st., Lowell, told Judge Pinanski and the jury that shhe visited Michael F. Coggins, Jr., 20, three times in his jail cell last April, when he told her about the holdup slaying.

Identifying herself as the former Theresa Dionne of Lowell, who was once engaged to Coggins, on trial with Ralph P. Dupont, 20, Lowell, for the fatal shooting, the

N. Y. Heiress Amnesia Victim Found Working as Waitress

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Nov. 13 (AP)—Patricia Anne Black, 17-year-old Westhampton College student and daughter of George A. Black, Scarsdale, N. Y., vice-president of General Foods Corp., who has been missing since Nov. 5 was found today working as a waitress in a Williamsburg coffee shop.

Dr. J. R. Tucker, Williamsburg physician, described her as an amnesia victim.

The attractive petite blonde was recognized in the coffee shop of Williamsburg Lodge by Capt. Sam Peach, chief of the Colonial Williamsburg police dept., from newspaper pictures.

He said he talked to her and that she "didn't remember anything—not even her name—until I told her."

He immediately took her to Dr. Tucker who said he would allow her to return North with her father, now en route to Williamsburg from Richmond, where he has been since Monday to aid in the search for his daughter.

Miss Black was employed at the hotel here the day she disappeared from Westhampton, Peach said. She told him she had travelled the 50 miles from Richmond by bus.

Black last night told reporters of a head injury she had received in an automobile accident in 1946 and said he believed she was suffering from amnesia.

MRS. MADALINE A. ELDRIDGE IN DEDHAM COURT
Sailor's Letter to Her Read During Divorce Trial

Sailor's 'Kiss' Letter Read in Divorce Suit

A sailor's ardent letter, in which he protested his undying love for Mrs. Madaline A. Eldridge and recalled fondly the time he kissed her, was read into the record today at resumed hearing of cross-divorce suits brought by her and Howard A. Eldridge of Braintree, in Dedham Probate Court.

Mrs. Eldridge, who spent the entire morning on the stand, admitted receiving the letter and said she had written twice to the sailor, CPO Frank Consalvo. But, she protested, her husband had seen the letter and had treated it as a joke.

Hearing of the case was resumed today after a postponement from Monday when the attractive, 21-year-old wife collapsed after testifying her marriage was wrecked when her husband learned the boy he thought was her brother was really her son, born when she was 12.

Mrs. Eldridge testified she met Consalvo at a Boylston st., Back Bay, restaurant, where she was employed. She denied ever going out alone with him

The letter was addressed to "My Darling Dixie." She admitted the "Dixie" was a nickname given her by Consalvo.

"Today I am awfully happy because I received a letter from a beautiful little, brown-eyed, soft-spoken girl who I thought most certainly had forgotten me," it read, in part.

"I have wanted to tell her how much I really loved her and how much I didn't mean to hurt her. That I didn't hear from her didn't keep me from loving her, loving the way she walked and talked and longing to be near enough to hear that sweet voice or touch her smooth velvet skin.

"I am thinking of the morning you were sick but you came out and I kissed you a couple of times. Dixie, regardless of what you think, I am really in love with you. I know I can never love anyone like I do you. Remember, I love you. I couldn't stop if I wanted to and I don't want to. Every word is the truth. I have no reason to lie. All my love, darling."

Mrs. Eldridge said she had finally asked him to stop writing because he was getting "too flowery and foolish."

"He wrote the same flowery kind of letters to other girls at the restaurant," she declared.

Her husband, she said, once knocked her downstairs because she returned late from a shopping trip. Another time, she declared, he kayoed her with a right to the jaw, and at a housewarming at their home in Arborway pl., Braintree, he hit her so hard he knocked her off a chair.

Mrs. M. E. Sullivan Rites Tomorrow

A solemn high requiem mass for Mrs. Mary E. Sullivan, 77, Codman st., Dorchester, widow of ex-Rep. Edward J. Sullivan, will be held at 9 a. m., tomorrow in St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester.

She is survived by four sons and four daughters: Leo J., register of deeds; George D., Joseph E., assistant clerk of Superior Court; Charles G., Barbara M., Mary L., Mrs. Thomas J. McGann, N. Y., and Mrs. Charles H. Connelly, Dorchester. Burial will be at Old Calvary Cemetery, Hyde Park.

Builders Tell Probers of Black Market

Greater Boston builders today promised to furnished a list of black market operators to a joint Congressional committee which opened a two-day hearing in the Federal building here.

Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire challenged the builders to name them after the committee heard testimony that black market men were profiteering in critical building supplies. The testimony caused Tobey to shout:

"Damn these bandits. They go out and buccaneer and profiteer on the American people."

First to testify about the black market dealers was Robert Rolde, a Boston builder. He told the committee, of which Rep. Ralph A. Gamble of New York is chairman, that his records were in his office but that he would provide the committee with them.

Another builder, Sumner Hersey of Natick, told of a dealer using a hearse to transport nails he was selling for $25 a keg when their true market values was only $5.

Angus McNeil, president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Boston, and several others told the congressmen they would give the committee lists of black market dealers, "provided they are kept confidential."

Rolde told the investigating group he was now working on projects that cost him $2000 a room because of exorbitant prices for materials.

Mayor Hynes, one of the first to testify, told the committee there was little doubt housing was the No. 1 domestic problem in the nation.

The mayor asserted that Boston today urgently needs homes for from 15 to 20 thousand veterans' families and if the city's current 27,000,000 building program to provide about 3400 dwelling units were completed overnight the housing problem here would still be acute.

Scores of representatives of industry, labor and government are scheduled to appear before the committee at continuation of the hearing tomorrow.

Boy in Murder Gets Mental Test

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Twelve-year-old Howard Lang, freshly scrubbed and combed and neatly dressed, spoke out briskly, "Not guilty, judge," when arraigned today on a charge of murdering a playmate, Lonnie Fellick, 7, during a trip to the woods to roast potatoes last month.

Prosecution and defense lawyers agreed to have the boy examined by a psychiatrist Saturday, before a trial date is set.

Lang, who confessed he stabbed the Fellick boy, slashed his throat, and crushed his skull with a heavy slab of concrete, has been held in the county jail, where he attends regular school classes for young inmates. He missed the morning class but planned to attend the afternoon session.

Lang is the youngest murder defendant in Chicago's history.

Motorists to Get 2 Plates for 1948

For the first time since 1942, Bay State motorists will be issued two new number plates for 1948 registration. Next year's plates will show white numbers on a maroon background, the Registry announced.

In 1942, back and front number plates were issued. These same numbers were retained for 1943 and 1944 when the Registry issued window stickers to indicate that vehicles were registered. Since 1945 a single plate was issued each year.

Prison Sentences Of 3 Cut in Half

The Appelate Division of the Superior Court today announced a reduction by more than one-half of the 7 to 10-year term imposed on Milton Flione, 32, of Belknap st., Watertown, after he had been found guilty of rape.

The division also reduced the terms of Robert H. Newhall, 30, Peabody medical technician, sentenced in the illegal surgery death of a Vermont University co-ed, and of Sims Holton, Tremont st., South End, serving terms for robbery.

Flione's sentence was reduced to 3 to 5 years. Newhall's sentence of 12 to 15 years was cut to 9 to 12 years.

Holton's sentence was cut to 5 to 7 years.

Man Who Lost Bet on Life Died in Strange Series of 11's

The strange case of Allan Sharp became even stranger today. Sharp died Tuesday in his McCormick sq., East Boston, apartment, from natural causes. That was only a few minutes after mailing a $10 check to a doctor whom he had wagered five years ago that he, Sharp, would never live to see 65. He paid off because Tuesday was his 65th birthday.

Today, the physician who had jokingly taken the bet was revealed to be Dr. Noel G. Monroe of Plymouth rd., Newton.

He disclosed that the envelope containing Sharp's check was postmarked the 11th minute, the 11th hour, the 11th day of the 11th month.

In addition, the numerals of Sharp's fateful birthday added together, total 11.

Dr. Monroe, a physician at the Boston Edison Co., where Sharp had just retired, said:

"I had taken the wager as a joke and dismissed it from my mind. I was examining him five years ago and found nothing to indicate he would die so soon. To assure him, I predicted he probably would go on for years to enjoy life. It was then he wagered he would not live to celebrate his 65th birthday.

"I am, naturally, returning the check to Mrs. Sharp."

Services for Sharp will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the funeral home of John C. Kelley, Meridan st., East Boston.

Seek to Identify Amnesia Girl

Efforts were being made today to identify a young woman, a victim of amnesia, who was found huddled in the doorway of a Peabody sq., Dorchester, cafe by Patrolman Edward F. Connolly of the Fields Corner station.

The young woman, who is being treated at City Hospital, was described as about 22, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weighing 105 pounds. She has medium complexion, brown hair and gray eyes.

She was wearing a flowered house coat, a black cloth coat with hood collar, black shoes and stockings. She was wearing a plain gold wedding ring and a gold wrist watch.

Burma 80 P. C. Tax Seen Curb on U. S. Movies

RANGOON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The government promulgated a new amusement tax today, imposing an 80 per cent levy on the gross box office receipts for all U. S. films except travel and education movies. The tax, effective Dec. 1, virtually prohibits the import of American movies.

TURKS DISPLAY FORCES

ISTANBUL, Nov. 13 (AP)—Formations of bomber and fighter planes skimmed over Istanbul today as Turkish army, navy and air force units combined in the second day of extensive exercises concentrated chiefly in the militarized zones of nearby Thrace.

Britain Won't Help On Palestine Split

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Britain has decided against accepting, or substantially sharing in, the Soviet-American plan for partitioning Palestine, high government sources said today.

Under the Soviet-American plan Britain would be asked by the United Nations Assembly to continue to be responsible for law and order in Palestine until May 1, 1948.

BURNING SHIP IN PORT

HONG KONG, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Dutch freighter Alpherat, which messaged from the South Sea yesterday, that it was afire, arrived in Hong Kong today. Two holds were flooded in controlling the fire. The ship carried five passengers.

Waldorf

171,006 Surely Is a Lot of

DOUGHNUTS

I WAS ASKED, JUST THE other day, to give the approximate number of doughnuts eaten by Waldorf customers in the course of a week's time. The person who inquired was an elderly individual who relishes our doughnuts, and orders them for his old-fashioned New England breakfast, morning after morning. You certainly can call him a doughnut connoisseur.

• The question, which for the moment I could not answer in exact figures, so intrigued me that I have gone through our doughnut department records. The astounding results are so interesting, and prove so much, that I want to share them with you.

• Now, remember, today Waldorf Cafeterias enjoy just a shade under a million and a quarter customers each week. And most of these good folks like our fresh doughnuts . . . those big, golden brown, fat fellows, the sort into which you love to sink your teeth. They go so well at any time of day, particularly with a cup of our delicious coffee! So that, probably, is why this total figure is so large.

• By actual count Waldorf customers order an average of 171,006 doughnuts every week! It seems almost unbelievable, but that is the true record, doughnut by doughnut.

• I suppose it just goes to show what superior fresh doughnuts they really are!

Kane, Harriman Reelected; Bossy Gillis in Comeback

Mayors William E. Kane of Woburn and Arthur N. Harriman of New Bedford were swept back into office by substantial margins while Mayor John D. McCarthy of Malden was defeated in yesterday's three Bay State municipal elections, complete returns revealed today.

In a primary election at Newburyport, Mayor John M. Kelleher and former Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis were nominated to oppose each other in the Dec. 2 election.

The elections, were the quietest in years, with only 50 per cent of the vote turning out because of the storm.

The upset of the day was in Malden where Mayor McCarthy lost out by 678 votes to Rep. Fred I. Lamson, a former alderman making his third campaign for the office. Lamson polled 8720 votes to McCarthy's 8042.

In Woburn, Mayor Kane was re-elected to his sixth term, defeating former Alderman Francis M. McGarry by 1949. The totals were, Kane, 4706; McGarry, 2757.

New Bedford's Mayor Harriman won the most smashing victory, sweeping to a third term by polling 22,001 votes against 8870 for Register of Deeds Lawrence W. Caton.

"Bossy" Gillis, one of the state's most colorful political figures, forged his way bavk into the limelight in the Newburyport primary, trailing Mayor Kellener by only 97 votes. Kelleher, seeking a forth term, received 1211 votes, and Gillis, 1114.

Suing Vet Charges Bridé Tricked Him

Francis A. Scarano of Wiget st., North End, Boston accountant and former Army captain, in Suffolk Probate Court today sought annulment of his marriage to Mary A. Stone of Somerville, contending she had forced him to marry her under threat of having him dishonorably discharged.

Scarano claimed the woman had informed him she was about to become a mother, that he was responsible and that, unless he married her, she would notify the War Deptment.

"I was confused and panicky," he told Judge Frederick J. Dillon. "My head was swimming and I went to City Hall with her and went through the marriage.

"Minutes after the ceremony she told me she had lied. She said she was not an expectant mother, did not intend to live with me and had only married me to get an allotment."

Judge Dillion took the case under advisement.

Medford Man Admits He Hit Divorcee

Daniel J. Brienze, 24, Willis ave., Medford, charged with assault with intent to attack Mrs. Evelyn Phillips, 28, Warren ave., South End, admitted in superior court today that he punched her because she had slurred his four-year-old brother and cast inneuendoes about his mother.

On the witness stand in a jury-waived trial before Judge Allan G. Buttrick, Brienze testified:

"I got mad and lost my head. I punched her twice, not hard. If I had punched her hard, I might have killed her. They were only shot punches."

Earlier, the state produced a surprise witness in Wallace Alberti, 26, Gov. Winthrop rd., Somerville, a machinist, who testified that at the time of the alleged assault he was at the street entrance of the Back Bay apartment where Mrs. Phillips then lived. His companion was Viola Weimert, friend of Mrs. Phillips, now in California.

Alberti said he and Miss Weimert heard the screams of Mrs. Phillips and rushed up to her two-room apartment where they found her on the bed, her face bloody.

Mrs. Phillips, divorced mother of a young daughter, suffered a fractured jaw which hospitalized her for eight days.

The divorcee testified that Brienze escorted her home from a downtown night spot and left her, but returned while she lay asleep fully clothed and awakened her by placing his hands around her throat and threatening to kill her if she cried out.

Coffee Spill Costs Restaurant $2000

HARTFORD, Ct., Nov. 13 (AP) —A spilled cup of coffee cost Will's restaurant in Madison $2000 under the terms of a decision handed down today by Superior Court Judge P. B. O'Sullivan.

The $2000 went to Mrs. Barbara W. Thompson of Manchester who said she was burned when a waitress in the restaurant spilled coffee on her leg, and also that she suffered a knee injury bumping into a chair as she attempted to dodge the cascading beverage.

Cash in Ground Brings Sorrow

Aldi Aldo, 50, Newport, R. I., is one man who will never bury anything again in his life.

In Newton today Aldi was still sorrowing over the $301 he salted away in a little metal box seven years ago. He chose to deposit this nest egg four feet underground in a vacant lot.

For seven years he left his buried treasure. On a visit to Newton after five years, he began a two-day digging task with the assistance of his friend Arthur Priora's three children.

When he unearthed his treasure and opened the dirt-encrusted box, all that met his gaze was a pulpy unrecognizable wad.

2 N.Y. Romeos Fined in R.I. For 'Mashing' Police Girls

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 13 (AP)—Two New York men were fined $20 each today in this city's campaign against "mashers." They made the mistake of trying to "pick up" two good-looking Providence policewomen.

Charged with disorderly conduct, Alois L. Doering, 64, of Staten Island, and Samuel J. Levitt, 37, of Broadway, pleaded guilty in police court.

The two young policewomen—Alice M. Cullen and Eleanor R. Lyons—testified the men followed them in a shiny 1947 car as they walked along Union st. just before midnight.

Honking the horn, one of the men called:

"Get in, girls; we want to have a drink with you."

The policewomen—dressed in unpoliceman-like clothes—walked to the car and asked, "do you know us?"

"No," was the joint answer, "but we'd like to buy you a drink."

The two girls flashed their badges.

"Providence made a mistake in having such pretty policewomen," groaned one of the men. "We don't have them as nice as you in New York."

ARGENTINE STRIKE ON

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13 (AP)—Employes of large Argentine metal mills went on full strike today after a 48-hour sitdown demonstration for higher wages.

The Metal Workers Union announced some 200 small plants would meet demands and 10,000 of the 150,000 men who participated in the sitdown returned to work.

Grocers prefer Victor Coffee 3 to 1

According to a recent impartial survey conducted by Radio Station WCOP, Greater Boston's grocers prefer VICTOR 3 TO 1 over the next leading brand for use in their own homes! Why? Well, VICTOR is richer because it's ripe . . . fresher because it's vacuum-packed . . . uniformly good because it's Matched Roasted. Yet—strength for strength—VICTOR costs no more!

Woman Foreign Minister on Job

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 12 (Delayed in Transit) (AP) - Foreign Minister Anna Pauker, the only woman foreign minister in the world, took over her new office today and declared Romania now is an active partner in the anti-imperialist front led by Russia against the Anglo-American imperialists.

Mme. Pauker, a Communist of long standing, assumed her post in the presence of the entire Romanian Cabinet and 1000 other persons from all walks of life.

She said the main aim of Romania's foreign policy was to preserve the peace, national sovereignty and independence of the nation. The nation's relationship with Russia, she said, was a guarantee of Romanian independence.

Mike Ward $64 Question Winner

School Committeeman Michael J. Ward of Allston discovered today he was $63.74 richer than he thought.

Ward, who formerly lived in Roxbury, was reading newspaper advertisements listing unclaimed accounts in Boston banks. He came upon his own name, linked with his old Auburn st., Roxbury, address.

The Roxbury Institution for Savings announced therein it had $63.74 long dormant under Ward's name. Ward said the money must have been there 30 years. He remembered putting money in the bank but his impression had been it didn't amount to enough to warrant a trip to withdraw it.

Mrs. Preston Sturges Granted Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP) Film Producer Preston Sturges, 47, is free from the wife who testified "he didn't want to be known as a husband."

Mrs. Louise Sargent Sturges, 38, obtained an uncontested divorce yesterday. She won custody of their son, Solomon, 6; $45 a week for his support, $57,500 in cash, a residence, two automobiles, one-half interest in Sturges' California Pictures Corp. and 20 per cent of his literary income up to $90,000 a year.

He went home early – again!

She had looked forward so much to this evening, yet he left early with only the lamest of excuses. She never knew that "B.O." (body odor) was the reason. And so tragic, too, when it is so easy to be safe. A daily bath with Lifebuoy gives you all-over and long-lasting protection against "B.O."

STRETCHING THE SUPPLY OF FUEL OIL & GASOLINE!

What Socony-Vacuum and the Industry Are Doing to Help

Reasons for the Pinch

They all add up to one . . . unprecedented demand — from civilians, and from the Federal Government which must have priority. This is the "Oil Age." More new cars on the road, more oil-heated homes, more conversions of industries to oil, more gasoline-powered machinery for farms, more Diesel locomotives, more giant airliners. More . . . more . . . more!

The oil companies in America are producing and delivering even more oil and gasoline than in the peak war year of 1945. But the demand for petroleum products is currently running ahead of supply! At this very moment, oil products are being delivered at the rate of some 574 gallons a year for every man, woman and child in the United States.

These are the conditions that Socony-Vacuum and the entire petroleum industry face today, and are trying to meet with all the resources at their command. The industry is investing more than four billion dollars for new equipment, production, refining and transportation. Output is at an all time high —but the pinch is on.

Socony-Vacuum Allocations to Direct Customers and Dealers

Moderation is necessary to prevent real hardship. To this end, Socony-Vacuum will allocate gasoline to present dealers and direct customers during November and December on a basis of four per cent less than the quantities delivered in the same months of 1946, subject to necessary adjustments to reflect current trends. The allocation also includes aviation gasoline, naphthas and Diesel fuels.

It is planned to deliver kerosene and heating oils during the current heating season to present customers and dealers on an equitable basis, reflecting as nearly as possible the amounts they received for the 1946-47 heating season. (June 1st, 1946 to May 31st, 1947.)

Socony-Vacuum will announce the basis of its allocation for the period after January 1st, 1948 sometime during the latter part of December. It is improbable that these allocations will be any higher than at present.

These allocations, of course, mean less gasoline, less fuel oil for consumers . . . they mean that these vital fuels must be wisely used.

What You, Too, Can Do to Help

Remember, that the careful use of petroleum can go far to bridge the gap between America's supply and every one of its real needs. Here are ways in which you can help:

To conserve gasoline—

Use your car only when necessary . . .

Drive at moderate speeds . . .

Avoid excessive choking . . .

Avoid "jack-rabbit" starting . . .

Keep your car in top mechanical condition. Have it serviced regularly, keep tires at their proper inflation. A little care along these lines will not only stretch your gasoline, but your miles and dollars.

To conserve fuel oil—

Keep your thermostat down to an adequate but conservative level . . . lower your thermostat during the night and keep bedroom doors closed if windows are open.

Close off unused or seldom used rooms of your house to avoid waste heating . . .

Attend at once to your storm windows and check to be sure that all other necessary parts of your house are properly insulated.

SOCONY-VACUUM

Rest assured that Socony-Vacuum and the oil industry are racing to supply more and more petroleum as fast as we possibly can. Meantime, help yourself through this temporary emergency—make every drop count.

EARLY SOS FROM YULE BUNDLES

DETROIT, Nov. 13 (AP)—An SOS sign dangling from an eighth story window was needed last night to free a zealous department store worker from the store's warehouse where he had been locked inadvertently at closing time.

Joseph Gibson, 49, employe of the J. L. Hudson Co., told police he "liked wrapping Christmas packages" so much that he worked past 5 p. m. and found the elevator idle and the eighth floor stairway door locked when he tried to leave.

Finding a piece of cardboard, he scribbled in red pencil, "please help me, I worked late and got locked in." He then fashioned a crude rope from string, electric wire and bits of cloth, and held the sign out the window.

A passing truck driver spotted it two hours later and notified police. Officers then located the building watchman and freed Gibson.

Storm-Shielded Thief Grabs Girl's Handbag, $40

Cambridge police today were searching for a youthful thief who, taking advantage of last night's storm, snatched the handbag of Dorothy Sullivan, 21, of Newtowne Court, Cambridge, as she walked along Windsor st., near her home.

Miss Sullivan, whose purse contained $40, chased the youth until he escaped by jumping into a waiting automobile.

Man Admits Firing Dorchester House

Faced with eviction from a six-room apartment where he lived alone and paid no rent, a 55-year-old Dorchester man admitted in the police lineup today that he set the fire in the three-family house in Leyland st., Dorchester, yesterday in which a 14-year-old girl had to be carried to safety by firemen.

The suspect confessed he set three separate blazes in the house because he was being ejected as a tenant.

The man said he had not been paying rent because the house was owned by a relative who recently sold it.

Flames trapped Mary DeFranco, 14, and her brother, Robert, 16, in their third floor apartment. The boy escaped down a smoke-choked stairway, but his sister was rescued by firemen over a ladder.

He was held for arraignment on an arson charge in Roxbury court.

The Red Feather way is the American way of voluntary community self-help. . . . Everybody Gives. . . . Everybody Benefits.

Can There be a More Stirring Impulse in America?

. . . "Charity is no longer an exclusive preserve for the rich. Neither is it a handout. Today people more and more want to know what they are getting for their dollar. The comfortable, nice feeling of giving to the poor is not enough. The heart must underlie all real charity, true enough. But the head is an important partner of the hand.

"The support of our community agencies in full and vital operation is, to borrow Joseph Chamberlain's great description of social legislation, 'the ransom which society pays for its security.'

"Twenty-five years ago the support of our social agencies in Boston was a patrician luxury, with some five hundred individuals making half of the total annual contribution. Today, almost forty thousand volunteers take part in the long preparation and the carrying forward of our Greater Boston campaigns, to which the leaders give literally months of their time. Some 400,000 individuals contributed to make up the $6,450,000 Greater Boston raised in 1947 for its 300 Red Feather Agencies.

"Can there be a more stirring impulse in America?

"Thousands of our citizens are taking new and increased interest in charitable works and learning rich lessons in neighborliness. I venture to say that nothing in our three centuries and a quarter has done so much to bring the two million people of Greater Boston together, in friendship and in better understanding, as have its eleven Community Fund Campaigns."

Nobel Prize Goes To Andre Gide

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 13 (AP)—The French Author Andre Gide received the Nobel Prize in Literature today.

The Swedish Academy of Literature selected the 77-year-old Author, for 40 years a leader amoung French writers.

His Swedish translator, Dr. Schildt, described the Frenchman as "A Communist against Stalin and a christian against the church." The Author visited Russia in 1933 at the invitation of the Soviet government and spoke in Red Sq. His address was at the funeral of Maxim Gorki, the Russian writer.

Polish Peasant Party Heads Seeks U. S. Entry

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Polish Peasant Party leader who fled last month from Poland, has applied for a visa to enter the United States.

Mikolajczyk's secretary said the self-exiled leader hoped to leave next week for America.

17 Colonists Off For Life in Jungle

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP)—A 74-foot tug chugged through Pacific waters today bearing 17 agricultural adventurers to a new life on a jungle island where there is no housing shortage or high prices.

The vessel named the Aster, is owned by Harper Henry of Los Angeles, who also owns the island of Chiriqui, off the province of Chiriqui, Panama.

Henry didn't name the dozen farmers and five wives, but said they were friends of his who were "thoroughly discouraged" by U. S. high prices and housing shortage.

Aboard were household goods, beehives, equipment for making brooms, and a piano. The colonists hope to obtain some revenue by marketing brooms.

Abd El Krim, Riff Warrior, To Join Fight for Palestine

CAIRO, Nov. 13 (AP)—A reliable source said Abd El Krim, the Riff leader who fought the French and Spaniards in Morocco in the 1920s, was planning to go to Lebanon soon to join Haj Amin El Husseini, the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, "in the struggle of the Arabs for Palestine independence."

El Husseini went to Lebanon from Egypt last month to attend a meeting of the Arab League Council and remained there to participate in the Arab fight for Palestine.

Tapley Conducts Musical Fete in Honor of Abp. Cushing

Rolland Tapley and 20 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra rendered a highly appreciated program of orchestral music at the Copley Plaza today at the assembly in honor of Archbishop Cushing. The program was under auspices of the St. Philomena Guild whose president is Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly.

Rolland Tapley

One of the leading violinists of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and a familiar guest-conductor of the Boston "Pops" orchestra, Tapley is known to music critics as an authoritative musician and one of the concert stage's most gracious personalities.

His career in the world of music has been a most enviable one. At the age of 16 he carried out his first tour of the United States as a soloist and followed this with a tour of the Canadian Provinces.

In his 18th year he was soloist with the Pops and director of the Symphony Group chamber ensemble. As a member of the Boston Symphoy he formulated a rich background.

Tapley is at present first violinist of the Tanglewood Quartet, distinguished chamber music group, and was recently appointed conductor of the Lynn Philharmonic, which, under his guidance, has reached unforeseen heights.

ATHENS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Dispatches from western Macedonia indicated today the long expected offensive against guerrilla forces had begun. Fierce fighting was reported around 15 villages and towns.

Troops Out In Marseille Red Strike Call

MARSEILLE, Nov. 13 (AP)—Troops and mobile guards were called out to patrol the streets of Marseille today as Communist labor leaders issued a general strike call following a day of rioting in which one person was fatally wounded and six others hurt.

While the Communists claimed their strike call had met a wide response among factory hands, indications as the day advanced were that workers were sticking to their jobs except in trades in which their unions previously had ordered strikes.

Affected were all seamen, longshoremen and members of the metal, building and chemical workers unions. Some food packers also were reported out.

All shipping in the port was tied up by the strike, which began as a protest against an increase in street car fares and assumed broader proportions following the arrest of four union demonstrators.

Police Fire on Reds As Italy Crisis Grows

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 13 (AP)—Police fired on Communist demonstrators here today as Italy's wave of political turmoil spread southward. Several wounded were hospitalized.

Naples police, in light armored cars, moved in on the Via Roma and the Via Medina in the heart of the city where a demonstration was held to protest against what Socialists and Communists called "neo-Fascist" provocations in Milan and elsewhere in the north.

GREAT BRITISH RESURGENCE OF FAITH

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR, if not the biggest factor, in the resurgence of Britain's faith in a free society has been the unremitting personal crusade of Winston Churchill in behalf of that way of life.

There is no arguing against the FACT of this resurgence of faith in Britain, for the trend of public opinion in the country has been reflecting it for a long time and now the recent councilmanic elections have implemented it strongly and decisively.

Of course the difficulties still to be encountered before there can be a restoration of a free society in Britain are enormous, with the Socialist government safely entrenched in power for an indeterminate time—perhaps for the full five years it claims as its mandate.

For this entrenchment in power the people of Britain can only blame themselves, since they countenanced it in a moment of national stupidity and thus surrendered themselves to a totalitarian bureaucracy—and it is not the nature of bureaucrats to yield to the will of the people or even the authority of the people, however, unrepresentative of the people and unresponsive to the will of the people they have become.

However long it may take, nevertheless, the present trend of political and economic events in Britain, if continued, must inevitably and inexorably lead to a re-establishment of the democratic way of life and government in Britain for which Mr. Churchill is the most persistent champion.

THE MANNER in which Mr. Churchill has challenged and now so remarkably persuaded the people of Britain to rehabilitate their traditional free society is best illustrated by his recent speech in the House of Commons.

The basic fault and fundamental error of the Socialist government, said Mr. Churchill in that speech, is that it runs counter to "the infinite processes of good housekeeping and personal ingenuity which constitute the life of a free society."

It has been the effect, if not the intent, of the program of the Socialist government, he charged, to stupefy "the vital creative impulse" of the people, which the policies of the government "have destroyed or are rapidly destroying in our national life."

Britain has been unable to be a productive and self-supporting country under Socialism he said, "because we are not ALLOWED to do so."

"The whole enterprise, initiative, and genius of the British nation," he asserted, "is being increasingly paralyzed by the restrictions which are imposed upon it in the name of a mistaken political philosophy and a largely obsolete mode of thought.

"I am sure that if Parliament set the nation FREE, it would earn its own living in the world.

"I am sure that this policy of EQUALIZING MISERY and ORGANIZING SCARCITY, instead of allowing diligence, self-interest, and ingenuity to produce abundance, has only to be prolonged to kill this British island stone dead."

MR. CHURCHILL is surely talking into deaf ears when he beseeches the Socialist government to:

"Set the people free—get out of the way, and let them all make the best of themselves, and win whatever prizes they can for their families and their country."

But he has evidently and most amazingly convinced the people of Britain, if not the government, that:

"Only in this way will Britain be able to keep alive and feed its disproportionate population, who were all brought into existence here upon the tides of freedom and will all be left stranded and gasping by the last ebb."

I like to lie down in the sun
And dream when my features is scorchin'
That when I'm too old for more fun
Why, I'll marry a wife with a fortune.
For I haven't a genius for work,
It was never the gift of the Bradys,
But I'd make an elegant Turk
For I'm fond of tobacco and ladies.

—CHARLES LEVER.

A SOUTH BOSTON subscriber, pointing out there have been songs or poems about people named Kelly, Harrigan, McCloskey, Burke, Shea, Rooney, Maloney and Reilly, asks: "Has there ever been a song or poem about a Brady?" The above is an excerpt from the only such poem I know of.

PASSING BY. George Jessel. Actor, author, singer, after-dinner speaker, film producer, song writer and conscientious student of the comparative speed of thoroughbred equines. Has just been engaged to sing at the Copacabana in Miami, Fla., for thirty-five thousand dollars for three weeks. I won't be there but if I were, I would request him to sing his own composition titled: "Oh, How I Laugh When I Think How I Cried About You." I have often wondered, but have been too discreet to inquire, which of the numerous feminine friends and matrimonial mates of Mr. Jessel inspired that song.

LAST PAID: Who is the last to have his bill paid, the doctor or the grocer? I believe it is the doctor. But the grocers differ. They claim they are at the bottom of the pay-off list. Anyway, a year ago charge accounts at most grocers were paid up in ten days. Now it is six weeks.

NOT LONG AGO The Brooklyn Dodgers Knothole Quartet won the quartet singing championship of Greater New York. I proudly commented on this famous victory as another to add to the long list of triumphs of the residents of the beautiful borough over the bridge. Now I have been disillusioned. Bill Conway, of the Pittsburghers Quartet, says all the members of the title winning Brooklyn Dodgers Knothole Quartet are residents of the borough of Manhattan and names them as George Monroe, Tom Jones, Harry Koch and Al Abrahams. Since when has Brooklyn, the birthplace and residence of some of the greatest quartet singers of all time, been compelled to cross the bridge to get harmonizers to represent it?

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—What are the chances of success of the marriage of a Leo girl five feet ten inches tall with a Leo man five feet nine? A—Take my advice, young woman, when you start thinking about marriage throw the astrology book out the window. If your heart tells you to marry the man, take a chance. Pay no attention to the advice of friends, relatives or astrologers. As for the young gentleman referred to being one inch less in height than you, that's a trivial matter. Have him buy a pair of height-building shoes and you take an inch off your high heels. Then you can look up at him when he gives you that old-fashioned, lusty, after-the-wedding-ceremony kiss.

POLICEMEN: The well-known Gilbertian lyric states "a policeman's lot is not a happy one." It certainly isn't these days with so many hopped-up hoodlums wandering around packing pistols. But how about the policeman's wife? Have you ever given that gallant lady a thought? Every morning she says goodby to her husband it is as if he were off to a battle-front. Then she has to start trying to balance her budget. Policemen are usually prolific papas. Average about four children. Salaries of policemen haven't gone up much. Hence the desperate struggle of their loving mates to make ends meet. May their budget balancing some day grow easier.

ASIDES: J. W. Kelly, the vaudevillian billed as "The Rolling Mill Man" and also as "The King of the Irish Wits," wrote the song "Throw Him Down McCloskey," introduced and made famous by Maggie Cline . . . Note a tall female referred to as a "Venus." History tells us that the measurements of the young woman who posed for the statue of Venus were as follows: height five feet, four inches. Bust 34¾, waist 28½, hips 36.

BRUNCH: "Eddie, I love you. I will always love you," writes a young woman of Boston. "But you exasperate me so much sometimes I would like to join that group of women who are anxious to slap your face on both sides. Why do you so stubbornly continue to ridicule the word brunch? It is a perfectly good word: meaning a meal that is a combination of breakfast and lunch." (NOTE—I still don't like the word brunch. Sounds like baby talk. Probably originated by a woman who speaks of her "hanky," "panties," "sockies," and so on).

"I DO wish you'd go easy on waxin' our floors so much!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Various accounts of historic proceedings at Teheran and Yalta strongly suggest that vodka, wine and bourbon were influential in decisions which have been calamities to Christianity and Western civilization. But, although it is freely related that Stalin drank vodka bottoms up and that Churchill stood manfully to his brandy, we have no honest statement of Franklin D. Roosevelt's P's and Q's. Elliott speaks of his father's drams in a way to leave pop sober, and this may be the fact of it. But whether Roosevelt honestly turned down his glass when Elliott was seeing things through a mist of champagne bubbles is a question on which any good examiner would press the witness for an answer. If Churchill emptied a bottle of brandy, what was Roosevelt drinking and how much of it? And how do we know that the stuff which Stalin tossed off was not water, when we remember that the late Heywood Broun used to boast that the colorless liquid in the pitcher on the lectern when he was preaching his message to mankind was not ice water but gin?

Westbrook Pegler

THESE WERE roaring, hairy chested giants boasting of their capacities. Roosevelt always yearned to ride in the smoker amongst the men.

It is unlikely that he stuck to harmless crocks.

Churchill is one of those rarities whose judgment improves with picklement and we might wish that our fellow had followed the same taste. If Roosevelt wasn't drunk, he might as well have been, for he couldn't have done us worse.

Discussion of alcohol as a problem of the most nearly royal family we ever had in our presidential palace took me some time ago to the case of our first visitation, Theodore. He was brother to the amiable rummy who was father to our own Eleanor the Great. Whether better or worse, politics was different in Theodore's reign, for this matter was a personal delicacy which in any campaign waged under the ethics and customs of the Democratic National Committee in the time of the New Deal would have been broadcast as a taint of the blood. Yet the brother's unhappiness wasn't mentioned then, even though Theodore dared to make a legal issue of his own sobriety. It remained for Eleanor herself to set down for the historians, in her first book of memoirs, the unqualified statement that her father was a souse.

Theodore was not an abstainer and he sometimes did pick up a load. This might explain some of his outrageous conduct as, for example, the time that he violated hospitality, precedent and manners to make a public brawl with Sen. Foraker at the Gridiron dinner, where the remarks are supposed to be nonpolitical or, at worst, non-controversial and confidential. Roosevelt attacked Foraker, a fellow guest. Foraker thus deserved and got his chance to reply and did. Roosevelt thus made news and broke the Gridiron's traditional privacy. Roosevelt not only acted the fool and the boor but he referred to the Negro race in a word that would make him a Fascist today.

"It was the worst performance he ever pulled off," Jim Watson wrote in 1936. "I never could understand what induced him to smash all the proprieties."

A few pages later, Mr. Watson, a Hoosier Senator and a Republican landmark, described Roosevelt as "an occasional drinker." Jim often lunched and dined with him. Sometimes Roosevelt took a drink. Other times he refused.

But he certainly did get tight occasionally.

ON JOE CANNON'S 70th birthday there was a big celebration and Jim recalls that a big fund was raised for the party of which it was said that "$100 was wasted for food.

"The feast was sumptuous, every kind of liquor flowed freely and everybody had a bully time. President Roosevelt came in about 11 o'clock. He asked for champagne. Each man then stepped up, filled his glass and asked the President to have one with him which he obligingly did. As there were a considerable number of gentlemen and as a couple of them who were not overly fond of Roosevelt consistently poured whisky into his champagne behind his back, it was not long before the President was in as convivial spirits as any of the rest. When he sued a Michigan publisher, he did admit on the stand having taken 'something to drink' at Uncle Joe's birthday party."

Franklin Roosevelt gave away a world to Stalin in meetings described as orgies. The witnesses do not try to absolve him of getting drunk among so many tosspots. They just evade the subject.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—My old friend, Harry Brandt, president of the Independent Theatre Owners of New York, is breaking out with a new movie of his own. He tells me he will produce "Close-Up" at the Pathe Studio here in New York.

It has to do with newsreels, and when I asked him if it would be a documentary film, he said, "Not on your life. It's a thriller-chiller-diller about a newsreel cameraman who accidentally photographs a criminal while taking pictures of a parade."

Harry is the gent who, a few years ago, got himself in all the newspapers when he named a list of stars who were "poison at the box office." I asked him if he had any more "poison" names.

Joan Crawford

With spirit unbroken, he answered, "Yes, more than ever in 1947"—but he wouldn't name them. I bet he would like to forget he ever dubbed Joan Crawford and Edward Arnold cold turkeys on that original list.

Italy, here we come! Still another Hollywood-financed picture starts in Rome when Bryan Foy sends over a company to make "Sons of the Musketeers," with Turhan Bey, the torrid Turk.

An Eagle-Lion man is already there along with Leonard Picker, the producer, and they say things are moving so fast the picture can start next month.

Italy was chosen for the filming of this swashbuckling movie not altogether because of the romantic backgrounds, but because of the blocked lira (Italian receipts piled up) which cannot be taken out of the country.

PRETTY CUTE, the story back of how Henry Ginsberg talked Bing Crosby and Bob Hope into making "Road to Rio"—the last and best of the "Road" pictures.

The boys had just about made up their minds the series was played out. They both had time on their hands for outside assignments—which their Paramount contract permits them.

So Henry, vice-prexy in charge of production, said, "Look, boys, here's a funny script. Let's give the 'Road' one more try and we'll cut you both in on the profits."

In case you don't get the point—Henry kept his box office babies in a home production, eliminated competition from two outside pictures, and with the business this movie will do—everybody's happy!

STATE SEC. MARSHALL will have four seats at the command performance in London, as he will be there when our movie stars make their appearance for British charity. This certainly lends the occasion the top of the cream in importance.

I was asked to go and at one time considered it—even got so far as far as to get my passport out. But I didn't feel I could leave right now, and besides, with Inez Robb and Bob Hope to cover it—what more could any syndicate want?

HERE'S A GOOD ONE about Sherman Billingsley, who takes no back talk from anyone. Seems when the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar arrived in New York, his secretary called the Stork Club and asked for reservations.

He said: "I must be sure the Maharajah has no cheap publicity and that the newspaper people do not send out anything but dignified stories if he comes to the Stork."

Sherm sent back word that he very sorry he couldn't tell the newspaper people what to write, so he would advise the Maharajah to go to some other night club.

What a laugh, considering that "Coochie" has been out with all the pretty girls in Hollywood and everytime I have seen him in New York he has always had a cute blonde or brunette on his arm.

OPERA NOTES continued from yesterday: Saw Dorothy Kirsten at the opera with Gladys Swarthout and she is more like Grace Moore than any singer or person I know, except she isn't as animated as Grace was—ner so fast with her repartee.

I have always wished Harry Cohn would remake "One Night of Love" with the Kirsten gal in the lead because Grace liked her so much.

Grace's popularity has never abated. May Davenport Seymour, Harry Davenport's niece, currently has an exhibition at the museum of the City of New York, in which she reproduced Grace Moore's dressing room at the Metropolitan Opera. Last Sunday afternoon over 1500 people came to view the mementoes of the glamorous days of our glamorous Grace.

Sat at a table with Mr. and Mrs. Spyros Skouras and Gene Tierney at Sherry's during entr'acte. Gene was lovely in a red evening gown, simply cut and deep off the shoulders.

Also talked with Gene and Kathleen Lockhart, who were leaving for the Coast the next day with plaudits for their daughter, June, in "For Love or Money," still ringing in their ears sweeter than the music of the opera.

IF AT FIRST you succeed—it's the best reason in the world for trying again. This may be the reason Columbia is putting Glenn Ford opposite Rita Hayworth in "The Loves of Carmen" with Charles Vidor directing from Virginia Van Upp's script.

This is the foursome that made "Gilda" a box office bonanza. I was interested to hear that while Rita sings and dances in "Carmen," none of the music from Bizet's opera is used. Instead she'll twirl to old gypsy songs.

Incidentally, this is the third movie Glenn Ford has made on his home lot with only a week's vacation between pictures—but the kid isn't kicking.

SNAPSHOTS of New York and Hollywood collected at random: The ex-Mrs. Ernst Lubitsch at El Morocco with a very good looking young man whom she introduced to me—but I didn't catch the name.

Right behind her was Tommy Manville with Mrs. Dorothy Freeman, a model. Someone said, "Is she going to be your ninth or tenth wife?" and he answered, "If she will have me." That English girl hasn't as yet given him his freedom—and I don't think she will. I hear Tommy's family has asked her not to.

Loretta Young's first night in town was spent going to the theater with Rosalind Russell's sister and her husband, Chet Le Roche and of course Ted Lewis. I must say I was very proud of Loretta when she walked into the Stork Club. She looked every inch a star.

Loretta Young

Charlie Einfeld is in seventh heaven about all the splendid notices "Body and Soul" received in the New York papers. It broke records in Chicago.

I saw Helene and Lee Bowman with Lou Fleming about town—usually at The Stork. Lou says Victor Fleming is better, but still not completely well yet following his long illness.

Morton Downey, Steve Hannagan and Sherman Billingsley have a new perfume they call "Le Gallion" and it smells nice and pretty.

Richard Ney's new enthusiasm is Martha Vickers. They've made it twice this week to the Chanteclair in Hollywood.

What's this about Betty Avery Drown dating Lew Ayres? When I left Hollywood she was practically engaged to someone else.

Lee Van Atta, our own INS correspondent assigned to Gen. MacArthur during the war, joins the John Ford-Merian Cooper staff as an assistant production chief. His first job is a roving assignment on an adventure picture. Cooper and Ford got themselves a good man.

Oscar Homolka, who just finished "I Remember Mama," will do "Edgar and Alice," a stage play, next.

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

NEWS FOR BOSTON CITY EDITORS (and Massachusetts Public Welfare Commissioner Tompkins): Last night at Hotel Statler, 30 chiefs and subordinates of the public welfare departments of Boston, Cambridge, Medford, Newton, Somerville, Waltham and Arlington held a meeting behind closed doors . . . They formed an association, which they hope will become statewide . . . Their avowed purpose is to resist further encroachment by Commissioner Tompkins on their rights as municipal officials. They said they were "fed-up" with interference in their domain.

MASSACHUSETTS exercises control over municipal welfare expenditures by reason of the fact that state approval of old age assistance grants must be given before Federal allotments are authorized. That's a relic of the New Deal . . . The city and town authorities are thoroughly aroused . . . Ramifications that involve the New York city scandal over welfare, we think Boston can well overlook . . . George A. McLaughlin of Cambridge was elected temporary chairman of the new association . . . Arlington's Cook was made temporary treasurer, Medford's Stone temporary secretary. City Manager Atkinson of Cambridge was present at the meeting . . . The next meeting takes place Nov. 25.

TO YOU the name "Peggy" Shea means an Irish girl. To veterans, she is the young woman who for many years sat outside the office of Gen. "Billy" Blake of the Veterans Administration. And if "Bill" was too busy to see you, she got you in, somehow . . . There came a day when "Peggy" was summoned to higher service. She was so efficient that she was called up to the newly-formed New England branch office to be secretary to "Del" Hiller . . . Then, Hiller died. We saw him the moment he was stricken. So did "Peggy" . . . There passed an epoch in veterans' affairs. And Hiller was replaced by Col. C. H. Nance . . . Last night at quarter past five "Peggy" was fired. Col. Nance told her: "It's a good thing you have a good friend in Bill Blake" . . . We wonder what the veterans are going to do about it, with "Peggy's" job abolished because—well, because Congressman John F. Kennedy and Congressman John W. McCormack and Congresswoman Edith Rogers have learned (through this column) some facts about the operation of the Veterans Administration New England branch . . . We would be pleased to hear from John F., and John W., and Edith. Because "Peggy" never told us a thing.

WITH THE ARRIVAL of television next year, Boston police may have means of ferreting the gamblers out of the right field pavilions at Fenway Park and Braves Field. The other night in New York, sports fans in their living-rooms saw bettors passing money at Madison Square Garden . . . It's a rare thing when a policeman steps to the witness stand and testifies for the defense, instead of the prosecution. That's what happened this week in Suffolk Superior Court at the trial of two men charged with taking bets at Suffolk Downs, in competition with the track . . . A Waltham policeman appeared Monday and testified for them, saying he was at the track, knew the men and saw nobody trodden taxpayer.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Sullivan brought out that the officer appeared without even being summoned. Yesterday, when the trial was resumed, the policeman presented a bright new summons. The accused were found not guilty.

WE DID NOT mean to give the impression that Congressman Kennedy is opposed to an investigation of the Veterans Administration here. He is not opposed and he expects there will be an investigation . . . The veterans of this locality doubtless know that Kennedy is their friend . . . No decision has been made on the city's purchase of another $700,000 worth of voting machines. Last Friday's tests of the two rival machines will be followed by presentation of arguments tomorrow by both companies, before the election commissioners . . . Yes, we are watching.

LIQUOR will be served at that banquet next Wednesday night of Alcoholics Anonymous, but not to the members of the organization. According to Mrs. Helen Brown, secretary of the Central Group, the press and other guests will be served drinks if they wish. She said this was done at the recent dinner in New York which she attended. And speaking of drinks, that move to install a bar and cocktail lounge at Logan Airport is awaiting decision by Atty.-Gen. Barnes as to whether it is legal to sell liquor on state property . . . If it isn't, the Legislature will be asked to authorize it. When and if that is done, a small cocktail room will be set up in the present temporary terminal building and will not await the construction of a permanent building . . . Plans for the latter call for a cocktail lounge and three or four other rooms where liquor would be sold.

MRS. ANNIE EGAN of 121 L st., South Boston, is representative of a good many people in Boston. She is Irish, and she hadn't seen her native land for 34 years . . . But one night, not so very long ago, she stood at Logan Airport knowing that, if God preserved her, as she prayed He would, she would be in Ireland in the morning. And she was . . . It was a thrill she will carry with her until the day she dies . . . Mrs. Egan, who is 56 and a widow with three sons and three daughters, was accompanied by Mrs. Catherine O'Neil of Broadway, her chum for 21 years and a native of County Clare, as Mrs. Egan is a native of County Cork . . . Neither was frightened by the hop over the sea, so they returned the same way. Their thrilling experience shows that the native Ireland of so many Boston fathers and mothers is not very far off now . . . But after all, it has never been any farther away than in their own hearts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—As everyone experienced in the propaganda racket knows, the best way to deceive and mislead is to tell a half-truth. The effective propagandist never tells a complete lie if he can help it.

We can expect all kinds of distortions, deceptions, and trick running plays from the Daily Worker and other publications frankly allied with the forces of subversion. They don't fool us much—probably because we seldom read them.

But the other day I was astounded to read this in a newspaper column supposedly devoted to light Broadway chitchat:

"The Hollywood actors, writers and executives who flew to Washington to protest against the methods of the House Un-American Activities Committee, paid for all expenses, including train fare."

We will pass for the moment the crack about "protesting" the operations of an agency of government, directed by the people's elected representatives, and get along to the business of the noble Hollywoodians having to pay their own dough.

You might gather, from a quick reading, that every witness who was not in accord with the committee was forced to pay his, or her, own expenses. The truth is that every witness subpoenaed by the government, on either side, was paid all the expenses the law will allow.

THE COMMITTEE knew that many of these witnesses would be fightingly inimical. You don't think the committee, after months of investigation, aided by FBI dossiers, had any illusions about what to expect from John Howard Lawson, Ring Lardner, Jr., Lewis Milestone, Dalton Trumbo et al., do you?

The witnesses, no matter what was anticipated from them, were provided transportation—either rail or plane, whichever they preferred. The government also paid their taxi fares and granted them $6 a day besides.

That's all the law allows. Granted, a man cannot live in lavish luxury on $6 a day, but that's because the law hasn't kept apace with living costs in expenses for witnesses. The committee was in the position, increasingly unpopular with many of our "liberals," of having to comply with the law.

If a $3000-a-week actor, writer or director insisted on taking a $50-a-day suite so he would have more room in which to bleed for oppressed humanity, and ordered up $138 worth of drinks and sandwiches—one actual tab—he could not legally charge it off to the poor downtrodden taxpayer.

But that isn't where the half-truth comes in. There were visitors from Hollywood who had to pay their own expenses—notably such opulent characters as Humphrey Bogart, Lauren Bacall, Danny Kaye and John Garfield. But they weren't invited by the committee—they came on their own.

In other words, without invitation or subpoena, they took it upon themselves to come to Washington to "protest the methods" of a legislative investigation which had no desire to employ any "methods" against them, good, bad or indifferent.

I wonder what would happen if a delegation of indignant citizens went to Hollywood to tell these characters where to head in—and then asked them to lift the check?

Dillinger's Crime Career to Be Told

For 10 crime-splattered years John Dillinger shot his way in and out of trouble with the law. Then he went to the movies with a "woman in red."

This mysterious woman, whose name was Anna Sage, died recently in Romania, but she will long be famed for supplying the tip to the FBI which snuffed out Dillinger's vicious career.

Peter Levins, popular author of mystery stories, will relate the complete saga of the one-time "public enemy" in a three-article series, "Dillinger and the Woman in Red," beginning in Sunday's American Weekly, magazine distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

General Backs Training Plan

DETROIT, Nov. 13—A retired general who took a green division from basic training through the European theater said Universal Military Training is the only answer to preparedness.

Maj. Gen. Stanley E. Reinhart, war-time commander of the 65th div., told the Detroit Schoolmen's ex-Service Club:

"Universal military training is most important now because we won't have time to train divisions when we're attacked again. The National Guard gives men two hours a week, and that's simply not enough to learn the complicated weapons soldiers will need in the next war.

"If we have UMT graduates who can continue their training in the Army Reserve and National Guard, we'll have a force ready to repel an invasion.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 13 (AP)—John Thomas Smith, Negro, was convicted on a charge he had shot himself. County Judge G. C. Boner fined him $250 and sentenced him to 90 days in jail.

A warrant sworn to by Sheriff's Deputy W. D. Newsome charged that Smith "unlawfully and with malice aforethought did assault himself with intent to murder by shooting self with pistol."

Smith told the court he shot himself in the arm but did not intend to commit suicide.

WOMAN-PROOF?

"No man is woman-proof," says Marlene Dietrich to Ray Milland—and then she proves it to him! Ralph Specter, Laybrook St., Brighton, calls Metropolitan's "GOLDEN EARRINGS" "enchanting and fascinating."

WOMEN ARE DIFFERENT FROM MEN

No man can understand a woman's physical problems, especially the menstrual period which often causes painful cramps, and taxes the body through blood loss.

This blood loss MUST be made up or a weak, wornout condition results—and the door is opened to sickness and disease.

Medical science says that for good rich red blood, the body requires mineral Iron. Unless iron is replaced in the blood stream, new blood is weak and watery, cheeks lose radiance, lips become pale. Headaches, nausea, dizziness and depression are common in this type of anemia.

In 10 days' time, any normal woman can now Enrich her blood with iron necessary for vigorous energy and physical fitness. Just 3 small "Enrich" Tablets daily give you all the iron you probably need—and for less than 2¢ each at the store listed below. Besides iron, Enrich Tablets give you added benefits of Vitamin B1, and other Vitamin B complex factors and minerals in supplementary amounts. A good combination!

A woman can possess beauty, money, intelligence—yet the love and attention she craves most, might be denied her if she lacks full-blooded energy and sparkling vitality. So Buy Enrich Tablets and start taking them. Your money refunded promptly unless results positively delight you!

wire fence and inhabited by a U. S. officer, 13 troopers, a wrecking car, an ambulance and a jeep. It is a self-sustained, isolated unit which lives like cloistered monks —a good place for a man to live with his thoughts and a ping-pong table.

"Yeh" shrugged Lt. Bill Bradley of Oklahoma, "it kinda suffocates some of the lads, especially if they come from a state where there's lots of elbow room."

For, though the town of Nahmitz is less than 100 yards away, no trooper may go there to barter eggs or practice pigeon Deutsch. Nor may the villagers come to them for a spare cigaret or a pinch of coffee. "It's like having a perpetual case of measles," grinned Bradley, who told how his boredom is lightened by Russian travelers, who are apt to come up with the strangest requests. Like the truckload of 16 officers and 20 men who drew up a few nights ago and asked for a fresh fill of gasoline.

"I said I didn't have any extra gas except what was in our vehicle tanks. So they said, well in that case, they guessed they'd stay with us all night and did we have anything to eat? That did it! I had visions of them walking off with a lot more of our stuff than gas, so I siphoned 15 gallons from a truck and got 'em going."

And that Russian colonel who barged out with a squad some weeks before and haughtily ordered the outpost evacuated within 24 hours, or else—and set up a machine gun across the road to enforce the order. So the outpost telephoned Berlin, p.d.q., and was told to stay right there and resist to the last man if necessary.

"Only it didn't come to that," said Bradley. "Somebody called the Russians, who called off the colonel."

The lieutenant seemed to enjoy such diversions. Last night another Russian colonel stopped by with a creaky differential gear.

"He wanted it fixed," said Bradley, "and I had a hard time convincing him we weren't a service station. All it needed was a little grease. The Russians don't seem to realize that machinery needs lubricating."

Fact is that the opposite side of the highway toward Berlin, as we returned, was littered with tow-chains of broken down Russian trucks, groaning wreckers hauling strings of motors which had gone "pfutt" in transit. They looked like files of circus elephants holding each other's tails. For oil and gasoline are essentials which Russia needs like an infant needs milk.

Patrolling this international road is one of the few operational duties left to this Berlin Constabulary, which is totally divorced from its brother squadrons of the U. S. general zone. It has no regimental command and is the only "mechanized tactical combat reserve" in Berlin. Its main function is as "guard of honor" in the ceremonial part of Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay's show. Troopers are posted at entrances to MG buildings, more as ornaments than necessity.

A file of sartorially perfect soldiers greet every VIP (Very Important Person) when he arrives at the Tempelhof airdrome or rail station, escorting him formally to his waiting motor. A horse in shining leather and fancy saddle blankets pays homage to such extra-VIPs as Herbert Hoover, Gens. Lemay and Marshall (these are referred to as "large wheels" in soldier parlance) when they come here.

As one ranking Constabulary officer told me, "Berlin is the Occupation throne room and the seat of pomp and circumstance. We're assigned to impress the Russians and Germans with our dash and swank."

One questions whether this small display of "swank" impresses Berliners, accustomed to Hitler's former massed military swagger. But it makes a good sample.

After a prolonged famine of New England soldiers in my recent rounds, I caught a creelful this afternoon. Cpl. Avroul Brunelle of 18 Canal st., Pittsfield, was typing a company roster (his mother, Priscilla, wrote him today that the family dog is fine). In the orderly room was S-Sgt. George R. Bliss of 14 Congress st., Fitchburg, an eight-year vet who expects to serve his next hitch in Hawaii. And in the corridor was S-Sgt. Julian S. Ogrodnick of 35 Boston st., Anthony, R. I. (near Warwick, which is near Providence), an ex-paratrooper who is now a communications chief.

And PFC John T. Tucker of 34 Cook st., Charlestown, who used to work alongside his dad, William, F., as a longshoreman. And Cpl. Ed. Kowalski of 51 Congress st., Hartford, who is assistant supply non-com and "short of everything." And PFC Richard C. Carpenter, whose aunt lives at Larnark rd., Brookline (she says he'll be back next summer).

Also Pvt. Edward Wronski of 19 Ward st., Worcester, cook for A troop. And Cpl. Roland R. Poulin of 56 Maple st., Lewiston, Me., a former shoe-cutter, who plans to re-enlist next week for five years. And S-Sgt. Bernard J. Stein of 131 Laurel st., Malden, who rode after my departing jeep on a bicycle and has a sunny personality, which he needs to boss the 190-odd German workers employed around the barracks.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

New Friendship Trains Due As More Gift Cars Hitch On

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 13 (AP)—Plans for new friendship trains were being made as the original, laden with a heavy harvest of Nebraska wheat, rolled into the Iowa corn belt today. The train was 57 cars long as it crossed the Missouri river during the night on its cross-country trip picking up food for Europe. Sponsors were having difficulty keeping abreast of unannounced plans for adding to its load of food.

"We keep running into food cars we don't expect," said Tom Slater of the President's food committee.

"With the unscheduled stops we've had to make, it's a good thing the railroads are being generous with their facilities. And there will be more friendship trains."

One of the unscheduled stops was at Sidney, Neb., where three carloads of wheat were picked up. The Lincoln, Neb., citizens' food committee announced it would send another carload of wheat to a friendship train which will leave Wichita, Kan., about Nov. 21.

Slater said the train leaving Wichita would be carrying contributions from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Another train will originate at Louisville, Ky., and travel north through Indianapolis, Ind., to Chicago, and still another will move up the Ohio Valley from near Parkersburg, W. Va., to Pittsburgh.

Slater also disclosed another "friendship ship" to carry the food across the Atlantic may be provided by U. S. Lines, in addition to the one to be provided by American Export Lines. One ship will unload at Italy and the other at France, he said.

Musicales Open

By BETTY ALDEN

TWENTY CANDLES adorned the big birthday cake celebrating the 20th season of the Morning Musicales which opened yesterday at the Statler with a concert by Martial Singher, popular baritone of the Metropolitan Opera.

Despite the storm 1000 subscribers were present for the opening concert in the fashionable series that benefits the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. Once they had checked their boots, plastic hoods and other rainy day garments they presented a fashionable picture in lovely fall woolens and attractive hats.

Mrs. Gifford K. Simonds, Jr.

The cake was served during the coffee hour before the program. Mrs. John K. Myers lighted the candles and Mrs. John A. Greene cut the cake. The eight pourers were all subscribers at the first concert in 1927—Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. Charles A. Proctor, Mrs. Charles D. Thompson, Miss Harriet Robeson, Mrs. Joseph H. Pratt, Mrs. Richard Sears, Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer and Mrs. Roswell Parish.

In addition to many Greater Bostonians, the Musicales audience includes a number who come from far and wide. Mrs. Gifford K. Simonds, Jr., came from Fitchburg, and Mrs. John W. Filoon from Brockton. Mrs. H. R. Sayles was joined by her daughter, Mrs. George Payson Carver, Jr., who lives out near the Berkshires, and Mrs. Bradley C. Higgins of Worcester attended with her mother, Mrs. Robert Moore of Waban. Mrs. John W. Scott of Weston drove in with her daughter, Mrs. David Lutkins, one of the head ushers this season. Mrs. Paul D. Sheeline of Newton joined Mrs. H. Hayward Sanders for luncheon at the Statler Terrace Room after the concert.

DOROTHY RACKEMANN, Sally Reed and Mrs. James Hutchinson, Jr., had a lot of fun poring over the newspaper clippings of the first concert. Mrs. Converse Hill came in from Lexington and looked very modish despite her rain boots, in a gray tweed suit and matching hat. Mrs. Winthrop Carter and Mrs. Endicott Saltonstall, Jr., came together from Chestnut Hill and just made the opening number after having to drive their car to the seventh floor of a nearby garage.

The Statler Terrace Room, as always, was a popular gathering place for luncheon after the concert. Lunching in parties there were Mrs. Ralph B. Jones with Mrs. John Greene and Miss Dorothy Seccomb, Mrs. Richard Thompson with her mother, Mrs. Charles Proctor, Mrs. Winthrop Jameson in a snappy gold wool dress, with her daughter, Mrs. Barbara Bell, Mrs. Charles H. Matz and Mrs. John O'Day with her debutante daughter, Ann, who is a Musicales usher.

"DRUMBEATS AND SONG" is the theme of the joint concert by the Harvard Band and Radcliffe Choral Society to be given at Symphony Hall Dec. 5 to benefit Radcliffe's 70th Anniversary Fund.

Harvard's bandsmen will present a program ranging from Wagner to college favorites and the Radcliffe girls will provide an interlude of song. There will be snack bars on each floor of Symphony Hall to lend a Pops atmosphere during intermission.

Mrs. Donald T. Field of Chestnut Hill is chairman of the benefit, assisted by Mrs. Carl Koch, Belmont; Mrs. Benjamin Ross, Quincy; Mrs. Lowell Sloane and Mrs. Chester Baker, Boston; Mrs. W. Langdon Powers, Winchester, Mrs. Erwin H. Schell and Mrs. Munroe Day, Cambridge.

Sponsors include Mrs. Dana L. Greeley, Mrs. Raynor C. Wellington, Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske, Mrs. F. Murray Forbes, Jr., Mrs. Harvey H. Bundy, Mrs. Alan Cunningham and Mrs. William Muller.

BEACON HILL Association, a society of property owners on the Hill, will have a meeting Nov. 20 at Charles Street Meeting House to hear Russell Codman talk on fire prevention and discuss plans for a new fire house.

Beacon Hillers who are officers and directors of the association include Alfred P. Lowell, Allen Forbes, John Codman, F. Murray Forbes, Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, Mrs. Walter Powers, Mrs. E. Sohier Welch, Frank C. Nichols, Wm. A. F. Power, and H. Richardson Lane.

PARIS HAS ALWAYS loved beading and embroidery so this year's postwar fashions show a complete abandonment to decoration. If you can sew you can treat your creations to some added zest now that such a handy device as the Dritz nailhead set is available. It comes with two simple applying tools and brilliant, glittering nailheads can be applied as quick as a wink wherever the decoration is desirable. This good-looking blouse has been considerably enhanced because it has been glittered with Dritz nailheads . . . larger than a good-sized bead and presented in different shapes and colors and rhinestones.—R. Helps Skins of All Ages

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT'S CAUGHT ON AMONG the younger lassies . . . that lady-like look that's been fan-fared for a merry-fare-thee-well this season. They've indicated an acceptance of the heralded you-know-what look. The girls are going neat and feminine on us once again. They are prettying up the clothes picture and normalizing the facial artistry.

A psychologist friend of mine explains that the Sloppy Joe fad came of girls whose older brothers, fathers and menfolk were at war. Their mothers frequently worked in factories. There was a masculinizing influence for the girls of the world throughout the war period. Now these girls are suddenly discovering that it is no longer necessary to be anything but charmingly feminine.

The blue jeans have gone back to the farm. The bobby socks are confined to active sports . . . and flat shoes are being replaced by high heels. That's a necessity with longer skirts and the molded look in dresses. The slim princess line . . . the middy line . . . and the ballerina fullness . . . are high on their fashion preference list.

And because they know that the figure must be nicely controlled when poured into these contour-revealing styles . . . they are even wearing pantie girdles . . . like those Mabs designs . . . poised and perfect for the young figure.

LET SKIN BREATHE

In this great transitional change that's overcome young Miss America . . . there can also be noted a more subtle change in the facial look. It has gone from the dark look of a few years back to a new bright, illusioned and natural look.

And girls are finding fewer problems lurking in their complexion. They are suddenly realizing that the facial skin likes to breathe . . . and because it has been given a chance to do just that . . . it is blossoming like a beautiful flower. Young girls need few cosmetics in their beauty routine of skin care.

Once it achieves gentle normalcy . . . without complications popping up at the most impropitious moments . . . it is a snap and a joy to maintain its prettiness. If we had a daughter we would introduce her to a simple routine of complexion protection. She is bound to use cosmetics eventually . . . so why not train her properly? Why let her run the risk of haphazard selection?

PLAN BEAUTY ROUTINE

Teach her to use an all-purpose cleansing cream and skin freshener morning and night. Teach her to routinize her skin care for its safety tomorrow . . . for its protection against future peskies . . . for its preservation of the perpetual schoolgirl look.

The one we have in mind has been a standby for many, many years. Yesterday's generation used it with success . . . and today's younger generation can use it profitably as well. Made of wonderfully fine ingredients . . . it is as good for the skin of 16 as for 60. The skin freshener is an able skin-mate.

For the name of this traditionally fine cream and skin freshener, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MOVIE ACCLAIM comes first through beauty and then through talent . . . because it is the look that counts first . . . the young, lovely, unblemished beauty recorded on the celluloid. Now that sky-blue eyes, honey-blonde hair and appealing figure added up to Warner starlet acclaim for Barbara Bates . . . she's set on earning fame for her histrionic talent. A young beauty today . . . perhaps a star tomorrow!

Boy, 17, Seems Too Hasty

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I am 17 years of age and want to marry a girl who is also 17. She is the girl of my dreams and we are very much in love.

My parents, however, are advising me against marriage. They seem to think that I am very young at this age. I know I am in love. I have known this girl a long time, seven weeks to be exact.

What would you advise? My parents say that if you okay this, they are willing to give their consent. "E. M."

Dear "E. M.":

I am sorry, but I fully agree with your parents in this matter of your marriage.

I realize that boys and girls as young as you two have been known to marry and to make a success of their marriage. But I think this is only possible when two young people have known each other a great deal longer than seven weeks, and consequently know what to expect from each other. Seven weeks may seem a long time to you, but, as a preliminary to marriage, it is far too short a time to make the venture safe. This does not even go into the question, either, of whether or not you, at your age, would be able to take on the support of a wife and possible children.

New Life to Last Year's Dresses

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

DRESSES THAT are definitely too short for this year's styles can be salvaged and even made to shine with a few alteration tricks.

If the dress has a plain top and a slim skirt you can cut the skirt crosswise in two places and stretch its length by sewing in bands of companionable fabric. If the dress is black crepe, the bands might be black satin, lace or grosgrain. The first band should be set 8 inches below the waist and should be 3½ inches wide. Second band (this one 2½ inches wide) should be set 6 inches below the first.

If your dress has a flared, swirling skirt the best plan will probably be to add a band of material at the hemline. For smoothest effect, run a line of cording between the old hemline and the new fabric and in placing your new material, follow the grain of the old.

In cases where your length problem can be solved simply by letting out the hem of a dress, a new problem may be created because the old hemline shows. If the line just won't come out you can cover it with braid that matches or contrasts with the color of the dress.

Some Choice Fish Dishes

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

ONE HUNDRED and thirty-six million pounds of fish are now frozen and in storage; three hundred million pounds will be produced during the next 90 days; and if necessary, eighty million more pounds can be provided by our tremendous American fishing industry. There's no doubt about it, that's a lot of fish.

With all that good fish available, why should anyone be disturbed about meatless and eggless days. Fish is one of the best protein suppliers that nature gives us and a delicious one, too. What's more, fish brings never-ending variety to our dinner table.

Our first recipe is for broiled fish fillets with puffy sauce. Try it and see if fish won't rate the title of "Protein de Luxe" in your home.

BROILED FISH FILLETS WITH PUFFY SAUCE

2 to 3 lbs. fish fillets
Salt and pepper
Butter or margarine
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tbsp. chopped pickle
Dash of cayenne pepper
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
¼ cup mayonnaise

Wipe fish fillets with a damp cloth. Season fish, brush with butter or margarine. Pre-heat broiling compartment. Place fish fillets on broiling pan skin side down, about three inches from source of heat. Broil 6 to 10 minutes or until just tender. Combine remaining ingredients and spread over fish. Reduce heat and broil from 3 to 5 minutes or until sauce is puffed and delicately browned. Makes 6 servings.

SAVORY BROILED MACKEREL

3 lbs. mackerel, split and cleaned for broiling
1-3 cup salad oil or fat
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tsp. vinegar
1 tsp. prepared mustard
½ tsp. salt ⅛ tsp. paprika
½ tsp. bottled thick meat sauce

Brush fish with sauce made by combining the other ingredients. Broil about 12 minutes, avoiding too high heat, and brushing fish frequently with sauce. Serve with remaining sauce. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED FISH FILLETS WITH WINE SAUCE

2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. butter, margarine, fat or salad oil
2 tbsp. flour 1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper ⅛ cup top milk
½ cup sauterne
1 lb. fresh or frozen cod or haddock fillets
1 tbsp. chopped parsley

Saute onion tender in butter in double boiler top over direct heat. Stir in flour, 1 tsp. salt, pepper and top milk. Cook over boiling water until thickened. Remove; stir in sauterne gradually. Arrange fish, cut in servings, in 10 x 2-inch pan. Sprinkle with ½ tsp. salt; pour on sauce. Bake in 350 deg. F. oven 30 minutes, basting 3 times with sauce. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

CREAMED SALMON

2 cups medium white sauce
2 cups flaked, cooked or canned salmon (1 lb. can)
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Make white sauce using 3½ tbsp. flour, 4 tbsp. fat, pepper, 1 tsp. salt and 2 cups of milk. Add remaining ingredients and heat. Serve hot on toast, in patty shells, on waffles, as a filling for split baking powder biscuits, with baked potatoes or in toast cups. 6 servings.

Berkshire Group In Free Concert

The Berkshire Chamber Orchestra, with Louis Speyer conducting, will give a free, public concert, Wednesday evening at 8:15 in Sanders Theater at Harvard University.

Program: Serenata (1930) of Casella; Kirchenkantate No. 189, "Meine Seele ruhmt und preist," by Bach with Tenor Yves Tinayre, as soloist; Divertimento (1946) by Piston; Serenade a Angelique (1945) by Honegger; and, Trittico Botticelliano (1927) by Respighi.

Producer-Director Plan Scores

The outstanding number of screen successes made by producer-director combinations seems to prove the soundness of such an arrangement. RKO Radio Pictures has been a leading exponent of this policy, recent examples being Robert Riskin's "Magic Town," Rene Clair's "Man About Town" and John Ford's "The Fugitive."

This impressive list will be further augmented by the forthcoming Dudley Nichols production of "Mourning Becomes Electra;" the John Cromwell production of "Night Song;" Leo McCarey's "Good Sam" and George Stevens "I Remember Mama."

Dore Schary, a highly successful screen writer before taking on executive responsibilities and now vice-president in charge of production for RKO Radio, is one of the greatest exponents of the producer-director combination on the basis of its success from both an artistic and boxoffice standpoint.

MARX FILM ON BILL

The Marx Brothers, in "A Night in Casablanca," are now being featured at the Laffmovie Theater. The story is set in postwar Casablanca, and has the brothers messing with and foiling a batch of Nazis.

'Tonight at 8:30' Schedule Revised for Shubert Run

A change in the order of performances for the two groups of short plays in Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" has just been announced. The Gertrude Lawrence-starring six-play production opens a three-week engagement at the Shubert Theater Monday night.

It is to facilitate the handling of the massive production, which requires two baggage cars of scenery and costumes, that the revised programming has been made.

The following new schedule will prevail during the local run: "Ways and Means," "Family Album" and "Red Peppers" will be offered on Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and at Wednesday matinees. "Hands Across the Sea," "Fumed Oak" and "Shadow Play" will comprise the bill on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, and at the Saturday matinees. In the original schedule, the bills were to have been reversed, with "Hands Across the Sea" opening the local engagement.

"Family Album," "Red Peppers" and "Shadow Play" are plays with song and dance, for which a 16-piece orchestra under the direction of Frank Tours provides the Coward music. "Hands Across The Sea" "Fumed Oak" and "Ways And Means" are short comedies. All were staged under Mr. Coward's personal direction.

The present revival, which had its original premiere in Boston 11 years ago, brings back Miss Lawrence in the roles she created with phenomenal success. Graham Payne, young English leading man, will be seen in the male leads originally played by Mr. Coward. The cast also includes Norah Howard, Philip Tonge, Valerie Cossart and Sarah Burton.

"Pittsburgh," "Green Hell" Stay at Center

"Pittsburgh," starring John Wayne, Randolph Scott and Marlene Dietrich, and "Green Hell," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Joan Bennett, George Sanders and Vincent Price, are being held over a second week on the Center Theater screen.

U. S. Opens Berlin Anti-Red Air Talks

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP)—Launching an official radio campaign against Communism, a spokesman for the American Military Government told the German people tonight that Communism now threatens to enslave them as Nazism once did.

He promised the Germans the United States would agree to the political unification of a partitioned Germany only "In such a way as to forever eliminate the disregard of individual rights."

NU-SCREEN AT BRIGHTON

The Circle Theater in Brighton, first suburban theater in New England to install the latest scientific development in the showing of motion pictures, is now equipped with nu-screen which gives the long-sought for "third dimension" or depth to the screen.

Famous Battle in 'Henry V'

Most colorful and dramatic scene since the famous "battle on the ice" in the Russian film, "Alexander Nevsky," is said to be the battle of Agincourt which climaxes the screen version of Laurence Olivier's Technicolor triumph, "Henry V," which will be given a revival run at the Kenmore Theater beginning next Wednesday.

The battle of Agincourt was fought on Oct. 25, 1415, between the forces of the English monarch and those of King Charles VI of France. Although the English army numbered but 8000 knights and archers as against 30,000 French soldiers, they won the greatest single victory in English military history.

As a result of this victory Henry V won title to the throne of France and then further consolidated his position by marrying the beauteous princess Katherine of France. In the Theater Guild-sponsored film, Olivier casts the title role and Renee Asherson portrays the princess.

NOTED AUTHORESS DIES

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Baroness Orczy, playwright and author of the noted "Scarlet Pimpernel Stories," died here after a brief illness. She was 80.

98 U. S. Fliers' Graves Located in Japan

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (AP)—The graves of 98 American airmen who died during the war in remote areas of southern Honshu and Kyushu have been located by search teams of the 24th Infantry Division, headquarters said today. Previously teams had located 86 other graves.

Commonwealth Ave. Streetcar Traffic Tied

Hundreds were late for work today when a disabled three-car train tied up inbound streetcar traffic on the Boston-College-Commonwealth ave. line from 7:30 to 8:05 a. m. The train became disabled at Cummins rd. and Commonwealth ave.

The disabled car was towed into the Braves Field stop. To speed up inbound service to Boston, a Lechmere train was turned back at Park st. and another at North Station. Transit officials said cross-bar trouble between two cars caused the breakdown.

John T. Chattaway, Hit Song Writer, Dies

MILFORD, Ct., Nov. 13 (AP) — John Thurland Chattaway, 75, whose hit shongs "Mandy Le" and "Redwing" still are popular quartette favorites, died suddenly in his Fort Trumbull Beach home.

Chattaway, born in Springfield, Mass., wrote articles for a music publishing firm before he started his career as a composer and lyricist in 1895.

Big Nine Gave Rock Chill, Too, Because He Won

By BILL GRIMES

EARLY IN DECEMBER 1929, I was commissioned by Paul Bowser to go out to Notre Dame and see if I could talk "Jolting Joe" Savoldi into becoming a wrestler.

Upon my arrival in the city, which the Fighting Irish made famous, I learned that Savoldi, who had been dropped from the university, was in the Windy City working out with the Cardinals for a charity game against the Bears.

So, between trains, I dropped in on Knute Rockne. While we were "fanning," a tall, trim built youngster entered the office and engaged "Rock" in a short conversation.

"Bill, I'd like you to meet Frank Leahy," Rockne said. When the youngster departed, he added; "He'd have been one of Notre Dame's greatest linemen but for a leg injury. He's taken up coaching, handling a dormitory squad. He knows his football and, equally as important, he has teaching ability. He'll be a great coach some day, if he's crazy enough to make his livelihood out of football."

Well, Frank Leahy has lived up to "Rock's" prediction. He's probably the best mentor in the game and because of his success at Notre Dame, Frank Leahy is getting the same "brush off" that the "Big Ten" handed Knute Rockne.

During most of Knute Rockne's regime at Notre Dame, the "Big Ten" was a closed corporation. It was controlled, completely and definitely by Fielding Yost, Michigan; Bob Zuppke, Illinois, and Alonzo Stagg, Chicago. They made the schedules for the Big Ten Conference members, and were never guilty of giving themselves the worst of it as regards meeting strong opponents. It was totalitarianism to the nth degree.

Yost Was Bell Cow of Trio

FIELDING YOST was the "bell cow" of the triumvirate. Zuppke and Stagg were little more than "yes" men. The dictators possessed enough power to block every attempt Notre Dame made to gain admission to the "Big Ten."

For years, Knute Rockne battled Yost, Zuppke and Stagg but to no avail. "Rock" knew the answer and although he wasn't of the same faith as his players, he resented the stand taken by the powers, who dominated the conference.

Between the death of Knute Rockne and the coming of Frank Leahy to South Bend, the anti-Notre Dame propaganda subsided. Why? Because "Hunk" Anderson and Elmer Layden didn't develop winning Irish teams.

Then came Frank Leahy, who, under great secrecy, was weaned from Boston College. Under Leahy, the Fighting Irish began to re-establish themselves as the country's No. 1 team. When Leahy enlisted in the Navy, during the recent hostilities, Notre Dame did another "nose dive" while Ed McKeever and Hughie Devore were directing its destinies. With the return of Leahy, a year ago, the Irish moved back up the ladder and have been on the top rung for two seasons.

Beat Four of Big Nine

A YEAR AGO, Notre Dame met and defeated four of the "Big Nine" elevens, Illinois, Purdue, Iowa and Northwestern. The Fightin' Illini didn't schedule a game with the Irish this fall but Frank Leahy has beaten Purdue and Iowa and he will not have too much trouble with Northwestern on Saturday.

Frank Leahy has the same objective that Knute Rockne had, a home and home series with Michigan, but he hasn't any more chance of gaining that objective than "Rock" had. Leahy's flare-up in Chicago early this fall, after the A.P. poll had rated the Wolverines over the Irish, was, in my opinion, premeditated. He tried to get Fritz Crisler, the Michigan coach, to commit himself, one way or another but the cagey Crisler refused to be trapped.

Reports are to the effect that Notre Dame has run into schedule difficulties. The break with Army may be the forerunner of more refusals to play the Irish. In some quarters, they are blaming Leahy. Why? Wasn't he hired to produce winners for Notre Dame?

But Notre Dame isn't too much concerned over the "chill" it is receiving from some of the mid-western universities. It realizes that the Irish, as long as Leahy is in charge, can tax the capacity of any stadium in the country, regardless of the calibre of the opposition.

Make 'em like it, Frank.

W. Roxbury Merchants Pointing for Hub Title

The West Roxbury Merchants, newcomers in the American Division of the Park League, gained the championship of this league by downing the Jamaica A. A. 48-0.

The Merchants now await the National Division outcome to play the winners for the city championship.

Washburn Star of Line In Colby Scrimmage

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 13 (AP)—Tackle Tubby Washburn, who appeared out for the season when he suffered a hip injury last week, was the standout defensive performer yesterday when the Colby varsity scrimmaged against the freshmen, who demonstrated Bowdoin plays.

Trinity-Wesleyan Vets Match Unbeaten Slate

HARTFORD, Nov. 13—Trinity and Wesleyan, New England's only undefeated and untied football teams, went through light workouts today in preparation for their climactic game Saturday, at Trinity Field. The mad rush for tickets is something unparalleled in the history of the two universities. Trinity Field will only seat 7500 persons. Many times that number would like tickets for the clash.

Pres. G. Keith Funston, Trinity, turned down an offer to play the game at Yale Bowl, which has a seating capacity of close to 80,000.

"Frogs should stay in their own puddle," stated the Trinity prexy. "They would look funny at the seashore and might learn to like the salt water."

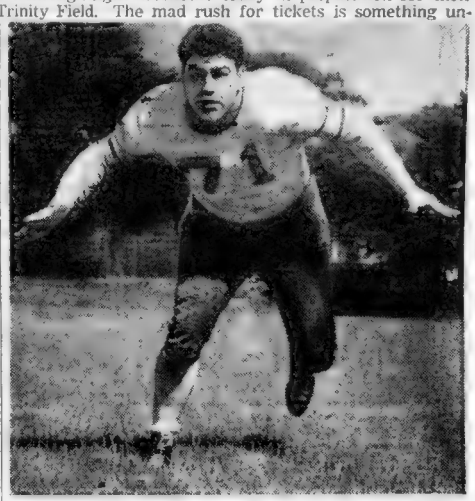
This statement was a direct blow at commercializing college football games.

The Trinity - Wesleyan series dates back to 1885. Since that time there have been 45 contests. Wesleyan has won 31, Trinity 14. There never has been a tie.

This season's game promises to be the greatest of the ancient series. Norman Daniels, coach at Wesleyan, has led his team to a remarkable string of 14 consecutive victories which extends back to the 1942 season. Trinity, under Coach Dan Jessee, has a clean slate in six games this season. The last Trinity defeat was incurred against Wesleyan last season by a score of 21-14.

Trinity was leading, 7-6, at the half in last year's game. Then Wesleyan's Harry Forbes tossed a pass to Phil Dundas for one touchdown and Sam Whiting ran around his left end for another and Wesleyan led, 21-7. Trinity fought back and scored a second time on a Kunkiewicz-Ponsalle pass. All of these boys are back.

The T-W game, although hidden away, will rate as the foremost college football game on New England's Saturday program. The victor will be asked to meet unbeaten New Hampshire for the N. E. small-college championship, but, in all likelihood, the invitation will be spurned.



HARVARD, BEWARE!—Greenfield lad, Bill McLellan, who has returned to Brown line for Harvard game. McLellan was named All-N. E. tackle on several 1946 elevens. He's been slowed down by leg injury.

Dartmouth Cripples Fit for Cornell Game

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 13 (AP)—Coach "Tuss" McLaughry, who has been forced to slow down Dartmouth's football preparations for Cornell by unfavorable weather, was breathing much easier today.

McLaughry gave the Indians a stiff scrimmage on Tuesday and both center George Schrek, who has missed only six game minutes this season, and right halfback "Chipper" Chapman wound up limping. Both were as fit as fiddles when the Indians put on yesterday's workout in the Davis hockey rink.

Cross Counting on Hard Charge to Beat Lions

WORCESTER, Nov. 13—(INS) Holy Cross banked today on a fast-charging line to upset the Columbia passing attack Saturday. The Crusaders were hampered in their study of Columbia plays by rain and snow that forced them indoors.

Frank Sugrue Back At Center for Vermont

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 13 (INS)—Frank Sugrue was set today to start at center for University of Vermont in the traditional game against Middlebury Saturday. Sugrue was a center last year, but played guard all this season.

Harvard Line Holds Key To Success Against Brown

Leading a strong Brown line into the Stadium Saturday will be big Bill McLellan, 5 ft. 10 in., 236-pound giant, who is the Bruins foremost line candidate for All-Eastern honors. Although greatly hampered by an early season leg injury, he has rebounded to become a tower of strength in the forward wall.

The largest man up front, McLellan is especially effective on the defense. He holds down one of the tackle berths and last fall won first team spots on several All-New England teams.

A star at high school in Greenfield, the massive line stalwart co-captained the club in his senior year and was selected a member of the Western Massachusetts All-Star team. He served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific for 17 months.

The current brand of ball the Bears are playing makes them a decidedly stronger foe than last season. A good comparison of this is the way in which they rose to topple Yale after losing to almost the same group of players last fall 49-0. Harvard battered the Bruins 28-0 in '46, but this weekend the Crimson will be on the short end of the odds.

Both teams will be resorting to an air attack. Harvard's spiral artist, Jim Kenary, is back in top physical shape and will be spearheading the Crimson offense.

Brown, at the same time, will be filling the airways with Ed Finn labels.

If the Harvard line can hold their own with a harder-driving Brown forward wall, the Crimson could turn the fracas into a sensational upset.

Backs like Gannon, Lazzaro, and even Moffie have been ineffective when the crucial blocks weren't thrown. When the linemen were there at the right time, those same backs brought the crowd to its feet with notes of praise. It's the linemen that bear the brunt of the attack and the Harvard linemen have just caved in during the last two games with Rutgers and Princeton.

So it will be up to the line Saturday—men named Devaric, Redis, Houston, Feinburg, and Markham. It's their ball game if they can meet the challenge.

The doctors have been working frantically on center Don Stone to bring him back into physical shape for Brown. His hard tackling has been sorely missed. With Stone back in the lineup (the doctors say that he will very probably be ready to go Saturday) John Fiorentino, who has filled in at the pivot spot, will be moved back to his end position.

N. H. LOSES GUARD

DURHAM, N. H., Nov. 13 (AP)—The undefeated New Hampshire Wildcats were snowed out of their last chance for a practice scrimmage yesterday.

While Coach Biff Glassford and his players idled, they learned that Gus Gilman, a 183-pound guard, would miss the finale with the University of Connecticut. He suffered a concussion during Monday's practice.

5 TUFTS' REGULARS ON SIDELINES

With five regulars on the sideline, Coach Fred Ellis fears that his Tufts' attack will sputter too often during Saturday's finale with the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

It is unlikely that such dependables as Rudy Fobert, Julie Doliner, Lou Bournazos, Johnny Calagione and Jack Kochiss will see any service and their understudies are untested in game action.

Terriers Please Buff

"For the first time this year, the boys look as I hoped they would at the start of the season," asserted Aldo "Buff" Donelli as he prepared to send his BU charges through their fourth day of drills for the King's Point game.

"The entire squad is in good physical shape. If they can stay that way for the next ten days, we have a good chance of making a clean two-game sweep," he continued.

Fundamentals were the keynote of last week's drills. And, as a result, the running and blocking of the Terrier backs has shown a marked improvement. The line too has finally rounded into top form, and they look good defensively.

Although yesterday's inclement weather forced the Scarlet and Whites indoors, it was not a wasted day. The boys went through limbering up exercises in the Nickerson Field clubhouse, and were subjected to three hours of classroom drills.

In addition to the diagraming of plays, the squad listened to the scouting reports of freshman coach Ed Donnelly, who scouted the Mariners in their Brooklyn College tilt.

The frosh mentor reported that the Merchantmen had a very dangerous threat in halfback Jim Dooley, who is a good passer. In the seven King's Point tilts to date, Dooley has connected with 28 of his aerials for 441 yards.

After being quizzed on some of the King's Point plays, Donelli sharpened the squad up on its pass defense. Saturday's game may well develop into an aerial battle, for it is generally conceded that the visitors will be unable to make any headway on the ground.

Georgetown's Spread Offenses Puzzle Wildcats

VILLANOVA, Pa., Nov. 13 (A)—Villanova's Jordan Olivar is puzzled over how to line up his Wildcats against Georgetown's spread formation tomorrow night at Georgetown.

Villanova has played seven teams this season which have operated from the T-formation and even got a dose of the single wing in the Miami game but it hasn't come up against the formation devised by the Hoyas young tutor, Jack Hagerty.

Deer Aplenty in Maine; Hunters Should Check Rules

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

"A veritable army of gunners in the woods on Armistice Day," is the word from Maine, where a heavy kill of deer was reported. Pheasants, too, are said to be plentiful, in addition to other game.

The mid-week downpour was very welcome, for the forest fire danger was still prevalent in most regions. We tramped through dense woods before the rain arrived, observing that the leaves were ankle-deep, and extremely dry. One spark would have been sufficient to have caused a conflagration.

In reply to numerous inquiries, open for hunting, with the exception of Carroll and Grafton Counties, which will open Saturday . . . And the deer season in Massachusetts runs during the first week of December, ONLY . . . We again ask hunters to check rules and regulations with local wardens or the office where they purchased their licenses.

SPORTRAIT: Dick Stevens, 15-year-old nimrod, of Canton, Me., hopes to equal his feat of last autumn, when he downed an eight-point buck, using a mere .22 single-shot rifle . . . The animal charged Dick and his brother, the latter armed with a .30-.30, with both lads trying to bag the creature . . . Dick started to fire as fast as possible, loading his single-shooter with cartridges held in his mouth, and finally bagged the buck, which weighed 242 pounds when dressed . . . This year, Dick plans to tote a heavier-caliber rifle.

OUTDOOR O. O.'s: Maurice Samson field trial chairman of the Eastern Mass. Beagle Club, Inc., tells us that he enjoyed considerable success at the recent Bay State Trials, held in Taunton, where his "Watatic Rocket" won the 13-inch class, a hound with which he has worked for years . . . This beagle has had a fine season, winning the Vermont Beagle Trials; the Northern Hare Trials, at North Creek, N. Y.; and placing third at Westfield.

Beagles are becoming a very popular breed. We've met numerous sportsmen lately all of whom take delight in running the clever canines . . . And speaking of dogs, our own setter pup, "Timber Topper," held a point on a crow—of all creatures—while in the woods the other day. He then proceeded to "flush" a rabbit, the chase discouraging him after quite a gallop.

According to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, a winning war is being waged against coyotes and their predatory pals:

Bruins Go on Spree Against Kid Goalie

By the Associated Press

The Chicago Black Hawks let out a tribal war whoop in the National Hockey League today.

The Hawks clipped off their second scalp of the National Hockey League season last night, beating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 5-4, while the Boston Bruins romped to an 8-2 triumph over the Rangers.

The Bruins used their victory to climb into a first place tie with the idle Detroit Red Wings at 13 points. The Leafs dropped a notch to third place, a point behind the pace setters, while the Hawks moved to within two points of the Rangers.

At least one thing seems clear—Hawks appear to have benefited by the "five-for-two" trade in which they gave up Max Bentley and rookie Cy Thomas for five players from Leafs. Addition of Roy Conacher to their lineup also appears destined to bolster their chances of getting into the play-off fight after a dismal start in which they dropped seven straight games.

The Bruins and Rangers battled on fairly even terms until an injury forced goalie Charlie Rayner out of the game and a youthful substitute gave way to jitters that allowed the Bruins to sail away the contest.

The Bruins rattle home six goals in the third period on 18-year-old Bob DeCourcy, who hails from Toronto and who plays with New York Rovers in the Eastern United States Amateur League. DeCourcy took over after Rayner was struck under the right eye by the puck on a lashing 40-foot drive by defenseman Jack Crawford of Bruins in the second period.

Rayner, whose injury required three stitches, said he still felt "woozy" after the game but he will be on deck for New York's next contest Saturday night.

The Bruins established what is felt to be some sort of scoring record when they rammed in three goals on DeCourcy in the space of 57 seconds.

Celtics Lift Lid in Baltimore; Make Local Debut Tomorrow

By SAM BROGNA

Pro basketball will get its second test as a major sport in Boston tomorrow night when the local Celtics inaugurate their second season of the Basketball Ass'n of America with the Philadelphia Warriors at the Garden.

Tonight, however, the Celts get their 1947-48 baptism at Baltimore where they play the B.A.A.'s new entry, the Bullets.

As Coach John Honey Russell was preparing to unfold his new edition of his team, those closely associated with the game feel this is the "do or die" year.

As the situation stands today, there is some fear of the game remaining. After Russell cleaned house and completely revamped his organization, there is little doubt that he has a potential winner and the team to watch this campaign.

With the exception of a few holdovers of last year's team that finished in a tie with Toronto for fifth place, his personnel includes three outstanding former collegians who will be making their pro debuts.

The ex-college stars include Eddie Ehlers, All-America from Purdue and Russell's No. 1 draftee; Saul Mariaschin, Harvard captain; and Gene Stump of De Paul.

Veterans acquired from the four teams that dropped from the league are Ed Sadowski and Mel Riebe from Cleveland, and Johnny Janisch from Detroit. Picked up on trades are Cecil Hankins and George Munroe. Hankins was secured for Wyndol Gray, and Munroe, a former Dartmouth ace, came for Brooms Abremavic. Both trades were made with the St. Louis Bombers.

The rest of the squad are last year's holdovers: Chuck Connors, Art Spector, Dutch Garfinkel, Charlie Hoefer and Connie Simmons.

Russell will use his two platoon system against the Warriors. In all probability, his starting unit will be Sadowski at center with Mel Riebe and either Hoefer or Mariaschin as forwards and Garfinkel and Spector in the backcourt.

The relieving platoon will feature Hankins, Ehlers, Stump and either Mariaschin or Hoefer, all depending who gets the starting nod. With this group will be Sadowski who is expected to do chores with both teams. He will be spelled by Simmons and Connors.

Preceding the Celtics-Warriors game which starts at 9 o'clock will be a preliminary contest between the West End House and Winthrop Varsity Club at 7:45.

Heavies Top Dempsey Card

For the first time this season, the Dempsey A. A. has carded a match which may catch the fascination of the fight fans. The 10-rounder feature at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night matched Jimmy Lake, Canadian heavyweight, against Harry Bernsten, Norwegian heavyweight titlist.

Bersten has been fighting out of New York in recent months. He is a better-than-average heavyweight. Lake fought here in Boston once before. On that occasion, he knocked out Earl Evans in two rounds after getting up off the floor.

The Norwegian and the Canadian met once before in this country. The fight drew $8500 at Ridgewood Grove, N. Y. Lake was the winner after 10 rounds.

Kramer Eager To Face Riggs At Pro Net

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP) Big Jack Kramer looked out over a new world today with varying emotions, but most of them were on the happy side.

Happiest emotion, as a newly turned professional, was the prospect of $50,000 as an income next year—and maybe more, according to tennis promoter Jack Harris' announcement in Chicago.

As for leaving his throne as America's No. 1 amateur, Kramer half laughed and said:

"America is well fixed for the next four or five years with a fine bunch of young amateurs, and it's probably lucky I'm getting out now."

The tall, affable blond belter, leaving for a short stay in Palm Springs, had this to say about the Harris tennis troupe, which begins its tour in New York's Madison Square Garden Dec. 26:

"I'm looking forward to playing Bobby Riggs. I haven't played him since 1941. I think we played seven or eight times and I won from him only once. He was the champion—amateur, that is—in those days, and was too good for me."

Lee Hammond Missing From Amherst Practice

AMHERST, Nov. 13 (INS)—Only Lew Hammond was missing today from practice as Amherst planned ways and means of halting Pat Higgins, the star of Williams College.

Collins Only Injured Player at Williams

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 13 (INS)—Only reserve halfback Roger Collins remained today on the casualty list as Williams prepared for Amherst Saturday.

CORN BOWL NEXT

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP)—North Central College of suburban Naperville, College Conference of Illinois football leader and winner of seven straight games this season, has accepted an invitation to compete in the first annual Corn Bowl game on Thanksgiving Day at Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 27.

Athletic Director Lester Belding said the Cardinals' opponents probably would be Loras College, of Dubuque, Iowa, undefeated in eight games.

Penn Pivot Dream Star

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP)—Chuck "The Clutch" Bednarik, chosen as lineman of the week in the Associated Press poll, has starred in many a coach's dreams this fall—beautiful nightmaries in the case of Penn Mentor George Munger and nightmares for opposing tacticians.

"The Clutch"—200 pounds of fused dynamite out of Bethlehem, Pa.—is a ham-handed octopus on the playing field. His performance at center last Saturday, when Penn turned back previously unbeaten Virginia 19 to 7, was his standout showing of the year.

Twice Bednarik halted Virginia scoring threats on the Penn one-yard line and was the key factor in Penn's victory on the admission of both Virginia coach Art Guepe and Munger.

"I think we would have scored more than twice," said Guepe. "In fact, I feel sure of it—except for one man. That Bednarik! We knew he was good, but we didn't believe any center in the country was that good."

Said Munger:

"Bednarik was no less than terrific. He played one of the finest games I've ever seen. You can't show me a better center."

The two coaches were not alone in their impression of Bednarik's play against Virginia. Most of the 78,000 who witnessed Penn's sixth win of the year without a loss went away from Franklin Field voicing praise of "The Clutch."

Earl "Red" Blaik, coach of Army's Black Knights—Penn's opponents this Saturday—is not unaware of Bednarik's ability, either.

Blaik dug out the movies of the 1946 Penn-Army game yesterday to refresh his memory. Last year Davis and Blanchard led the Cadets to a 34 to 7 victory over the Red and Blue for their third straight triumph.

"I was watching that Bednarik—Chuck, the Clutch, Penn's great center," Blaik said. "And I find it hard to believe any man could improve on the performance he gave. Yet our scouts say he's even better this year."

The impending Army game may well be the crowning point of Bednarik's collegiate football career. The Penn team is "up" for the Army game for two reasons—they have an unbeaten record to defend and those three losses to the Cadets to avenge.

WEEK'S BEST—Penn center, Chuck Bednarik, chosen AP "lineman of week." Army remembers him."

Wisconsin Fans Ticket Mad

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 13 (AP)—Tickets for the Wisconsin-Michigan football game—"Where can I get a couple of them?"

If you know the answer to that question send it immediately to Acting Gov. Rennebohm of Wisconsin, Pres. E. B. Fred of the University of Wisconsin, the university ticket office or any Madison newspaperman.

It's a question that has been plaguing all of them for more than a week.

Apparently every football fan in Wisconsin—and hundreds from other states, too—wants to see undefeated Michigan and Wisconsin tangle in the all-important Big Nine Conference game Saturday.

The game has been a 45,000 sell-out for more than two weeks, but that hasn't hampered those who still want to see it.

William Aspinwall, who directs the ticket sales, said he could have sold 20,000 more tickets.

Coast Asks Major Rank

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Florida weather won't be the only thing that will keep the baseball bigwigs warm on chilly Dec. 3-5, the dates when the minor league convention holds its annual meeting in Miami.

The request by the Pacific Coast League for higher classification—as a step toward major league status—and raising the draft price from $10,000 to $25,000, as well as player eligibility from four to six years, appear certain to face stiff opposition from some of the other minor leagues, namely the International League and American Association.

Climaxing three years of agitation for major league recognition, the PCL has drawn up a resolution which it has submitted to the executive council, making five specific demands.

They follow:

1—The name to be use at the start of next season to be the Pacific Coast Major League.

2—The creation of a new classification for the PCL—between the present Triple-A and the majors.

3—No elimination of draft selection regulations except that the draft price for the PCL be increased from $10,000 to $25,000 and the draft eligibility be raised from four to six years.

4—The PCL shall follow the major league in draft selection order and precede the two other Triple-A leagues, but will agree not to draft from the International League and American Ass'n.

5—The agreement shall last three years, at the end of which period the status of the PCL shall be reviewed for the purpose of taking the final step to full major league classification.

One big league official who declined use of his name said, "We will fight the Coast's bid for higher classification unless the International League and American Ass'n, both Triple-A, get the same privileges."

Cully Faces Lee At Arena Tonight

A former amateur champion, Jim Cully, seven-foot, two-inch Irish heavyweight, will be making his second start in pro ranks at the Arena tonight when he tackles Don Lee, Texas, in the main bout of the weekly wrestling program.

Cully defeated Ben Morgan in his debut here three weeks ago.

Other matches on card are: Bob McCoy, Cambridge, vs. Charles O'Malley, Philadelphia; Chuck Montana, Quincy, vs. Rufus Jones, Ohio; Jack Kelly, Illinois, vs. Bert Healion, Ireland.

Heavies Feature Amateur Card

Four heavyweights will be seeking top honors in the amateur boxing program at Mechanics Building tomorrow night (a shift from the usual Saturday date) as the South End A. C. conducts another of its weekly fight cards.

The top-weighted quartet will be George Brennan, Charlestown; Lou Thrasher, North End; Dan Hassett, Roxbury, and Lou Wolinski, Dorchester.

Competition in this show will be in all classes from the 122's to heavyweights.

CHARLES FITZGERALD, BERNIE KILROY, FRED MURRAY
Coaches of Boston All-Star School Squad

FitzGerald, Murray, Kilroy Named Boston 'Star' Coaches

Joe McKenney, director of physical education for the Boston schools, today announced that Coaches Charles FitzGerald of Public Latin, Bernie Kilroy of Boston English, and Fred Murray of Roslindale, are the coaches selected to direct the Boston All-Star squad in its game against the Catholic League All-Stars at Braves Field on Saturday, Dec. 6. FitzGerald was named as head coach.

Earlier today, the Catholic League coaches were named by Rev. George M. Dowd, league director, as follows: John Prior of Malden Catholic as head coach, Spencer Sullivan of Keith Academy, and Jack McCarthy of Cathedral.

It is pointed out by both directors that the selections are made entirely upon merit and not upon 1947 championships, etc. These men were chosen for their considered abilities as leaders in the difficult job of moulding representative teams in such limited time. The selections are not permanent, but may be changed from year to year according to coaching results.

Both groups of coaches will hold their first meetings tonight, though in separate places. The Boston coaches will meet at the Hotel Lenox. The Catholic coaches will meet at CYO headquarters in Boston. At those meetings, the selected coaches will be joined by all other coaches in each group.

Each coach will bring to the meeting the name of the player voted by the students in his school as the one the students wish to represent their school on the squad. The coaches then will complete their 23-player squads with their own selections.

Boston School Teams Kept Idle Again

The Boston High School football doubleheader scheduled for Fens Stadium this afternoon has been cancelled due to the poor condition of the playing field.

Jamaica was to have met Brandeis and South Boston was to have played Charlestown.

EAGLES LEAVE FOR TENNESSEE

Poissant On Train

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

There was no band at South Station this afternoon to bid Boston College godspeed on their trip to Tennessee, but there were several hundred parents, relatives and friends of the husky Eagles on hand to wish them well on their only trip of the season.

This isn't any Sugar Bowl team BC is facing Saturday. Maj. Neyland's Vols have won only two, lost five this season. eYt, in a way, this game will determine if BC is to get a major bowl bid. Mississippi walloped the Vols 43-13 last week, and BC must better that score if it hopes to gain a post-season game.

This is a difficult trick for BC to accomplish. First, Tennessee is always tough in its own back yard. Second, the southerners will be bolstered by the return of veteran Mark Majort, sidelined most of the season.

"Yes, they'll be real tough," said Denny Myers, who announced that John Furey would start in place of the injured tackle Ernie Stautner.

"Stautner is still in St. Elizabeth's Hospital," Myers said.

The other injured Eagle, Maurice Poissant, is making the trip though he will not play.

"He offered his place to another lad," said Myers," but he's done such fine work all season he earned the trip. It's the only one we're making this season, you know."

Joe Diminick was hurt against Wake Forest but his leg has responded to treatment, and "he'll start Saturday's game," said Myers. "Benedetto will replace Poissant," the B. C. coach added.

As the team lined up for pictures, it was to be noted that Clasby was in the backfield and not Stuka, as advertised.

Thus it seemed likely that Clasby would be at the quarterback post when BC lines up Saturday.

This could be a BC bowl team but it probably won't besimply because it lost to Louisiana State and Wake Forest by the same 14-13 margins. If it ever goes through a major game without making less than five mistakes it could be the equal of Penn or Army. It is laden with power and deception.

BC already has been tempted by Toledo's Glass Bowl but has evinced little interest. The game is played in the North, hardly a vacation for the hard-worked players. And there is little financial return from such a game. It is all or nothing at all for BC.

BC will arrive in Knoxville at 1:45 tomorrow afternoon, work out later on, then rest until game time. The team will arrive back in Boston on Monday.

Leaving the South Station were:

ENDS—Art Spinney, John Ring, Art Cassario, Albie Gould, Angelo Nicketakis (captain), Roy Norden and Stan Goode.

TACKLES—John Furey, Ed King, John Kissell, Chet Lipka and Bill McCarthy.

GUARDS—Mario Gianelli, Dom Papaleo Art Donovan and Al Murray.

CENTERS—Ed Kennedy, Bob Chouinard and Joe Kuhs.

BACKS—Steve Stuka, Jim Benedetto, Tom Brennan, Al Cannava, Ed Clasby, Willie De Rosa, Ed Songin, Joe Diminick, Jack Farrell, Wes Hughes, Bernie Lavoie, Bill Marra, Bob Paladino, Maurice Poissant and Fred Songin.

Syracuse Asks Honest Grid Scholarships

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP)—Lew Andreas, Syracuse University athletic director, says the university's football team "can't match" the competition provided by its opponents "unless we have the same sort of scholarships."

Speaking to the Syracuse Alumni Ass'n here, Andreas said Colgate University—Syracuse's opponent Saturday—gives 13 scholarships in the $1000 to $1500 class.

Syracuse football players receive no scholarship above their tuition, he added.

"Five members of the Colgate freshman team are receiving such scholarships this year," he said. "I have been informed that Colgate tends to build up to 100 of these scholarships."

Andreas also said that Cornell and Penn State give greater financial assistance to players than Syracuse. The Orange was beaten by Cornell and Penn State this year.

"We can't match such competition unless we have the same sort of scholarships," he asserted. "I am not for any slush funds. I am for football scholarships established by alumni chapters. We want athletes who are good students."
